

ONCE more it becomes evident that political parties, in America, are mechanisms for distributing the offices and winning the elections rather than organs for expressing the opinions of a group and conducting government according to those opinions.

Senator Nye, of North Dakota, is recognized as a "Regular" when his vote is needed to organize the Senate—that is, to distribute its offices. Then he finds that the United States marshalship, in his state, is going, not to his friend, but to the friend of his enemy Hanna. So he goes to the White House, demands his rights in the distribution, and gets them. Which is quite correct. If Nye is the sort of Republican that the Republicans of North Dakota want, then he should have whatever rights in distributing the jobs to his sort of Republicans Hanna would have if they had chosen him instead. The system is bad, but if it works one way, it should the other.

BUT the point is that nothing is involved at any stage of these negotiations but the offices. Senator Nye has not agreed to support Republican policies. So far as anybody knows what those policies are, it is notorious that he will not do so. Neither do the "regulars" who have reorganized him support those policies regularly. All he has agreed to do is to support the regular candidates for the Senate offices. In return, he gets his share of the committee places. And he demands and gets his share of the North Dakota appointments. These appointees will do politics for whoever are Nye's candidates for state office, and will support whoever is the program for President. That is all.

THE less our parties have to do with government, the more they have to do with selecting those who run the government. The looser their lines are on policies, the tighter they are on offices. The more useless they are, as mechanisms of responsible government, the more essential they seem as tools for winning elections. We could not elect a President or organize a Congress without them. We run the government without them habitually. It is a strange paradox.

CLARENCE Darrow has been making a speech in New York on "The Duty of Civic Disobedience to the Volstead Act." It is a good subject for Darrow. He really believes it, and he does not shrink from its consequences. If you remind him that, by some logic, the labor unions have a civic duty to disobey laws passed under the recent Supreme Court decision that the right to strike may be limited, he will agree that they ought to disobey the law. If you add that the L. W. P. have a duty to disobey the laws protecting property, he will agree, and will accept the task of defending them, and keeping them out of jail when they do so. Even obedience to the law against murder he regards as a matter of private conscience. He would not do murder himself, but it is the other fellow's business whether he will. Darrow really believes it, and he goes the whole way. He has brains and intellectual courage. How many of those who applaud his speech, as to the law they want to violate, would go with him the rest of the way?

Authority to Halt Work

The bill will give the president authority to suspend construction of the vessels in the event of another conference on limitation of armaments.

The approval of the president for construction of the vessels came as a surprise, as he previously had stated he believed work on three cruisers already authorized should be held in abeyance, pending a decision on another world conference.

The priest, Father L. J. Sweeney, went to the barn and found the boy. Walter regained consciousness long enough to tell them merely that his name was "Walter" and to give a telephone number. The number proved to be his home phone.

The man who appeared at the church is believed to have been mentally deranged.

U. S. Navy Lags Behind

The committee also was told the U. S. Navy was falling far behind the 5-5-3 ratio for Great Britain and Japan at the Washington Arms conference.

It is possible funds for the 10 new cruisers may be incorporated in the naval appropriations bill when it comes up in the house, after the Christmas recess.

President Coolidge, in a letter to the Army and Navy Journal, made public today, said he believed the estimates provided in his budget message to congress, which did not include appropriations for the three authorized cruisers, "provide adequately for the service; and economic administration will assure a well fed and well disciplined army, maintain the navy in a high state of efficiency, and promote the welfare and development of the air service."

This expression of satisfaction added to the surprise at news that the president had approved the 10 new cruisers.

And in this variant of smash, their most villainous and dangerous allies are the anti-union American business men who, by the miscalled "American plan," by "Company Unions," and by non-unionism generally, are furnishing fuel to the agitators, and are doing their best to weaken the most powerful arm of Americanism on the battle line of Bolshevism.

If you are frightened of "Bolshevism," don't help it, this way.

4 SHOPPING DAYS TILL CHRISTMAS

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 18.—Mrs. Fay Samuels, 21, was saved from tragic death today, when a bullet, fired by her estranged husband, was deflected by a gold tooth. Her husband, Currin C. Samuels, 39, was dying from a self-inflicted bullet wound in the head.

The double shooting occurred at a restaurant in the fashionable Wilshire section, where Mrs. Samuels was employed. Samuels went to the restaurant where his wife was working.

President Approves 10 New Cruisers

O. K. IS GIVEN TO BUILDING OF WARSHIPS

President Backs Measure Recommended to Him by House Naval Committee

10 MILLIONS FOR EACH

Construction of Vessels By Private Contractors To Be Advised by Butler

(By United Press) WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—President Coolidge has approved house naval committee recommendations for building 10 new cruisers for the navy.

Announcement of the president's approval of the bill was made today by Representative Butler, Pennsylvania, Republican, chairman of the committee. He said the president had given his "entire and cordial approval" for the construction of the vessels at a conference last night, at the White House, with five members of the committee.

Bill To Be Introduced

Butler announced he would introduce a bill today, authorizing the president to undertake construction of the ships at a cost of not to exceed $10,000,000 each.

He said he would advocate construction of the ships by private builders.

After Butler's announcement, the White House verified it, adding however, that the president had set no price nor time limit on the construction.

Meantime, in navy circles, it was whispered the move was intended to influence nations to agree to a new disarmament conference. To naval men, the absence of a time limit for construction strengthened the view that the step might be intended both to influence the conference idea and to be a sort of warning to other maritime nations that the United States would not lag longer on naval building if its dream of a new arms parity were not realized.

Authority to Halt Work

The bill will give the president authority to suspend construction of the vessels in the event of another conference on limitation of armaments.

The approval of the president for construction of the vessels came as a surprise, as he previously had stated he believed work on three cruisers already authorized should be held in abeyance, pending a decision on another world conference.

House Passes Alien Property Bill

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—The house this afternoon passed the Green alien property bill, which provides for return immediately of the 80 per cent of German war-time confiscated property here and for reimbursement of American claimants against Germans. The bill appropriates $50,000,000 to begin payments of American and German claims. The vote was 279 to 66.

U. S. PAROLES LANGLEY FROM PENITENTIARY

Former Congressman Freed After Spending Year At Atlanta

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—Former Representative John W. Langley, of Kentucky, serving a sentence in Atlanta penitentiary for conspiracy to violate the prohibition law, has been paroled, the department of justice announced today.

Langley, a resident of Pikeville, Ky., had served 10 terms in the house of representatives and was a member of that body when convicted, a year ago. He had served one year of his three-year sentence.

Mrs. John W. Langley, his wife, was elected last November to the congressional seat formerly held by Langley.

Attorney General Sargent, in announcing the parole, said Langley would be released from Atlanta at once.

SLAYER OF BOY IN CHICAGO SOUGHT

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—A city-wide search was begun today for the slayer of little Walter Smith Jr., who was found unconscious in a hayloft, early today, and died a few hours later from fracture of the skull and other brutal treatment.

The little boy was discovered a few minutes after a man appeared at a Catholic church, told the priest that "You'll find a boy dead in that barn yonder," and then disappeared.

The priest, Father L. J. Sweeney, went to the barn and found the boy. Walter regained consciousness long enough to tell them merely that his name was "Walter" and to give a telephone number. The number proved to be his home phone.

The man who appeared at the church is believed to have been mentally deranged.

Showers Follow Cold Wave Break

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 18.—Rain followed a break in the cold wave in Southern California today. Light showers fell at scattered points throughout the Southland as the mercury skidded upward from its near-freezing level of the last few days.

Some points, notably Burbank and Glendale, reported heavy showers, and in the mountains in this vicinity snow fell in generous quantities.

The official forecast for tonight and Sunday was fair weather, with normal temperatures.

DIES IN TONSIL OPERATION

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 18.—Miss Lottie Barber, 45, Petaluma, died today while under a local anesthetic, administered by Dr. John J. Smith. She was undergoing removal of her tonsils...

This expression of satisfaction added to the surprise at news that the president had approved the 10 new cruisers.

128 CASES OF YULE CHEER ARE SEIZED

Sheriff and Squad Capture Truck, Booze and Two Prisoners on Beach

MEN LANDED IN JAIL

Officers Make Big Haul Not Far from Entrance To Bolsa-Chica Gun Club

(By United Press)

WOOPING DOWN on a liquor truck, temporarily disabled because of its heavy load of Scotch whiskey and imported gin, Sheriff Sam Jernigan and members of his "night owls" captured 128 cases of fine liquor, the truck and two prisoners, on the beach between Huntington Beach and Sunset Beach, at 11 o'clock last night.

The catch was made within a few feet of the Bolsa-Chico Gun club, a place used by rum runners for landing purposes, off and on for several years.

With the price of Christmas liquor quoted in Los Angeles at $100 a case, the seizure last night probably was the biggest made by Santa Ana officers, in point of value, this year.

The prisoners gave their names as Joe Brown, 27, and John Wright, 31, both of Los Angeles.

Two Dash for Liberty

Both men made a dash for liberty at the approach of the officers, diving into the ocean and making an attempt to swim out to sea. A heavy barrage from rifles and pistols in the hands of the officers, which tore up the water in front of the swimmers, hurriedly forced them to change their plans and they returned to the beach.

The prisoners were taken to the Huntington Beach jail, where their clothes were dried, later they were brought to Santa Ana and are being held on charges of possession of intoxicating liquor.

Last night's rum runners used a new method in landing their liquor, so far as local authorities know. The truck was backed directly to the water's edge and the liquor was loaded from a small boat on to the truck.

Truck Sinks Into Sand

As the weight of the liquor rested in the truck, it sank deeper into the sand, in spite of a network of heavy wiring, found underneath it. After the truck was loaded, it was found that the load was so heavy the engine would not move the truck out of the sand.

In the interval that elapsed while Brown and Wright unloaded the truck, in order to move it to firmer ground, before reloading, the officers arrived and captured it. The truck was disabled, even more than the rum runners suspected, however, and although the engine would run, there was not sufficient power to move all the liquor.

Sheriff Tows Rum Truck

Officers filled the truck half full of cases, then loaded the remainder of the gin and Scotch in their machines and brought it to the jail here. Sheriff Sam Jernigan used his machine as a tow car for the truck.

Federal authorities were notified of the seizure early today and will remove the liquor to Los Angeles.

Officers who were on the raid last night were Sheriff Jernigan, Joe Irvine, Jesse Elliott, Jack Roberts and H. W. McKague.

Dan Adams, deputy sheriff, in charge of the "night owls," and Clyde Flower, another member, were scouting another alleged booze-landing party further down the coast at the time.

Lisbon Rocked By Sharp Quake

LISBON, Dec. 18.—A severe earthquake shook this city for several seconds today. The shocks were at maximum intensity for about three seconds between 2:40 and 2:45 p. m. No damage had been reported early this evening.

King Ben Unable To Enter Court

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Dec. 18.—With "Queen Marie" Purnell, but no "King" Ben present, the legal difficulties besetting the Israelite House of David, Benton Harbor, Mich., in federal court, were argued here today before Judge Fred M. Raymond. Illness prevented the presence of "King" Ben, H. T. Dewhurst, attorney and member of Purnell's cult, explained.

Police surgeons performed a hurried operation on Mrs. Samuels and announced she would live. A gold tooth deflected the bullet and it inflicted only a minor wound.

Agricultural Aid Not Mentioned in Senate Steering Committee's Program

M'NARY BILL IGNORED

Leaders Express Opinion That Action Will Be Held Up for Political Reasons

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—Farm relief, which was expected to be one of the outstanding issues of this session of congress, has been pushed into the background for the present, at least, by other legislation, agricultural leaders in the senate said today.

In the program just drawn up by the senate steering committee for the short session, no mention is made of "farm relief" measures.

The senate agriculture committee held its first meeting yesterday, but failed to discuss the McNary bill, introduced by its chairman.

The proposed legislation, with two minor changes, was introduced in the house yesterday by Representative Fulmer, Democrat, South Carolina. It is a modified form of the McNary-Haugen bill of last session.

Confidential opinion of many senators, however, is that no farm relief measures will be passed this year. Action will be delayed until 1927, so any relief measures will be fresh in the minds of the farmers when the 1928 presidential election rolls around, these leaders predict.

GREAT DEMAND FOR SANTA ANA CANNED FRUITS

Christmas comes but once a year and no one in Santa Ana knows that better than Fred Taylor, of Taylor's cannery, long established as a Santa Ana industry. But this Christmas Taylor has found a new kind of reminder, in the form of many, many orders for his preserves, marmalades, canned fruits and fruit candy.

In fact, eight persons are kept busy at the Taylor cannery filling orders. Customers have been attracted from Long Beach, Pasadena, Los Angeles and several other Southern California cities.

Every package or glass of fruit bears on it the name of the city in which it was packed. These packages go to all the far corners of the world.

Taylor had looked upon his little package of marmalade as a Christmas seller, but he admitted today that his results had far exceeded his expectations along that line.

His signal success this year will cause him to look into the matter of Christmas business with a keen and speculative eye, once the rush of orders for his product this year have all been placed in the mails. Next year he may open stores in several Southland cities.

The store operated by Taylor on Fourth street this year was opened just a few days ago, but already it is a beehive of activity. With his coat off and his shirt sleeves rolled up, the owner of the cannery does up the smaller packages and sends the larger orders to the plant to be filled.

Taylor said that an out-of-town firm sought the same quarters in the Helbush building that he had sought, a firm which sold something of the same kind of product, but more of the nature of dried and candied fruit. When H. H. Helbush learned that an outside firm was competing against a Santa Ana firm for the room space, he directed that the quarters be assigned to Taylor.

Taylor expressed his appreciation of Helbush's Santa Ana spirit.

OFFICERS SEEKING HIT, RUN AUTOIST

A search for the driver of a machine which ran down Nell Willets, young son of Tom Willets, Costa Mesa, at 4:25 p.m., yesterday, on Fairview avenue, Costa Mesa, and then sped away without stopping to render aid, is being made today by sheriff's officers, following the signing of a complaint against Harold Rich, Los Angeles, alleged owner of the machine.

The Willets boy was taken to his home, where it was said that his injuries were not of a serious nature.

Witnesses to the accident took the number of the car, it was said. Jesse Elliott, deputy sheriff, learned that the car, number of which was secured, was registered to Rich, who resides at 5222 Rangeview avenue, Los Angeles.

Whether Rich was driving the car at the time of the accident has not been determined.

Stores to Remain Open Every Night Until Christmas

Merchants of Santa Ana will keep their stores open every night next week.

This decision was reached during a conference of members of the Merchants and manufacturers' association this morning.

Original plans called for the stores to remain open each night until Christmas beginning Wednesday, but due to the fact that many persons are unable to shop during the day, it was decided to remain open every night next week until Christmas.

Fitting announcement of the change in plans was made this noon by Earl Ruddy, secretary-manager of the Better Business Men's association.

welcomed Ormiston's return, declaring it ought to clear his client of implication in the Carmel episode.

Accuses Prosecutor's Office

At the same time, the evangelist's counsel accused the district attorney's office of "suppressing evidence" during the preliminary examination of Mrs. McPherson, and aiding Ormiston's present private "captors" in "obstructing justice."

In a statement to the United Press, Gilbert said:

"The charge against Mrs. McPherson and her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy is that of obstructing justice and attempting to abuse processes of the court. If one-half of the newspaper reports are true, the newspaper interests which have charge of Mr. Ormiston, confessedly with the approval of District Attorney Asa Keyes, are guilty of a much graver crime than that with which Mrs. McPherson and Mrs. Kennedy now stand charged.

"This criminal prosecution has been exploited as no scenario or patent medicine ever was exploited. Mr. Ormiston long since placed in the hands of the district attorney an affidavit that Mrs. McPherson was no at Carmel, and we have a right to assume, regardless of unauthorized promises which may have been made to him, that his statement under oath will conform to the affidavit which he made several months ago."

"The production of the defendant Ormiston at this time is in keeping with the suppression of the fact that the alleged famous trunk found in a New York hotel, and alleged to contain clothing of Mrs. McPherson's, was in the hands of certain newspapers while the preliminary hearing was in progress.

Deputy District Attorney E. J. Dennison, at his office today, was admitted into the courtroom.

Ormiston came back to Los Angeles without knowledge of the district attorney's office, and while efforts were being made to have Governor Richardson take action to extradite the radio man.

"We have been double-crossed and left holding the sack," the deputy prosecutor said. "District Attorney Keyes ought to be given more credit than that to be connected in any way with such foolishness and tommyrot as this."

"I have been actively in charge of the McPherson case. Regardless of what anyone else says, I have been in touch with every movement and I know that Mr. Keyes knew nothing about Ormiston's whereabouts or his plans."

Ormiston arrived here yesterday with a group of newspapermen.

MUSIC LOVERS OF SANTA ANA DESCRIBE EBELL CONCERT AS BIG ARTISTIC EVENT OF YEAR

By ELEANOR YOUNG ELLIOTT

"Unquestionably the outstanding musical event of the year" was the opinion freely expressed today by musicians and critics who last night had the pleasure of hearing the concert in Ebell clubhouse, presented by three of the city's most accomplished musicians, Ollima Enlow Mathews, violinist; Madame Manuela Budrow, soprano, and Earl Fraser, pianist, with no less a personage than Calmon Luboviski, of Los Angeles, one of the leading violinists of the country, as guest artist.

The program offered by this aggregation of musicians was satisfying in the extreme, not only to the connoisseur, without knowledge of technique, but to the one, who uneducated in music, gives it for the sheer beauty it brings him. It was heard with delight by an audience not only large in point of numbers, but appreciative to a marked degree.

Mrs. Mathews and Mr. Fraser opened the program with the Grieg Sonata Opus 45, for violin and piano, an exquisitely musical composition which gave full scope to Mrs. Mathews' unerring musicianship and individuality. A mellow warmth marked her playing, combined with her usual flawless bowing. The piano background was given with the artistry that his audiences have learned to expect from Mr. Fraser, whose part throughout the evening performance was unusually exacting, as, in addition to his solo group, he served as accompanist for the other soloists and also played in the duo and trio compositions.

Fitting introduction

The Grieg sonata was a fitting introduction to the extremely varied, but always delightful numbers which followed. Madame Budrow was next to appear, singing the aria from Bizet's "The Pearl Fishers." She was in splendid voice, the silver notes seeming to well from her throat like a fountain. Madame Budrow's singing is marked by a singular effortlessness and an unerring trueeness of tone. It is doubtful if anyone ever heard her sound a note the merest shading off key. The dramatic quality, with which she invests each song, delightful and those hearing her last night could agree unreservedly with Signor Braggiotti that there are few voices like hers in this country.

Both Mrs. Mathews and Madame Budrow were delighted with flowers at the conclusion of their first numbers, the blossoms in each case completing a very charming picture. For Mrs. Mathews was girlishly lovely in a brief little velvet frock of apple green and the diva wore deep rose tinted georgette.

Applause accorded them and Mr. Fraser continued into a greeting for the guest artist, Calmon Luboviski whose choice for his first group included the oddly accented rhythms of the "Cree War Dance," by Cardin, singularly blood-stirring in its savage appeal; the exquisite moonlight and rose effect of "Valse Bluettes," by Drigo-Auer, and a striking "Theme with Variations," by Corelli-Kreisler.

Accompaniment Please Artist

The "Cree War Dance" was occasion for one of the most charmingly impulsive scenes ever taking place on a Santa Ana stage, for as the rounds of applause came, the violinist caught Mr. Fraser's hand and shook it warmly in his delight at so thoroughly sympathetic an accompaniment.

In responding to his audience's very evident desire for more, Luboviski gave one of the most interesting features of the evening, a St. Lubin paraphrase of the Sextette from Lucia, as a violin number alone. The intricacies and demands of the composition were truly amazing and nothing could have displayed more fully the artist's brilliancy, musicianship and his finger and bowing technique.

While the familiar theme of the Sextette crept on the air, at the same time were to be heard countless accompanying chords until it seemed impossible that a single instrument with a single player, could produce it all.

Print Appraisal Certificates

Hanson stated that the state association is having printed certificates of appraisal and points to be taken into consideration in the appraisal of properties.

John Knox, F. C. Pope and Freeman H. Bloodgood complimented Hanson on the clarity of his presentation of the appraisal plan and declared that in the development of the general scheme Hanson had performed for the realtors of California and for the nation a service that long would make him an outstanding figure among realtors.

Brokers from other sections of the Southland were present, among them Grover Russell, of Whittier, who will, on January 1, assume the position of vice president of the state organization, in charge of the twelfth district, and E. V. Hollifield, chairman of the appraisal committee of the Montebello realty board.

The meeting was held in Ketner's cafe, and was preceded by dinner, at 6:30. Prior to the dinner, many Santa Ana realtors gathered in the cafe for impromptu discussions with Hanson on charts he has prepared as a basis for his appraisal system.

The meeting, last night, was in lieu of the usual Friday noon meeting of the Santa Ana board, this organization being host at the district conference.

BEST METHODS OF APPRAISING
TOLD REALTORS

Employment of appraisal committees by private boards, banks, courts, city, county and state governments for appraising properties will become a custom in California in the not too distant future, in the opinion of Peter Hanson, of Glendale, chairman of the appraisal committee of the California Real Estate Association.

Hanson was here last night to attend an appraisal conference of realtors of the twelfth district of the state association and he presented, in a clear and forcible manner, details of the plans of the committee for effecting a system for uniform appraising of properties in the state. The speaker pointed out that at this time the California association is the only state organization making an attempt to organize a plan for making the appraisal committees of boards available to the general public for placing dependable valuations on all types of properties.

Is Responsible Service

"Appraising should be approached as a responsible service and not made on an off-hand opinion." Hanson commented, in pointing out that too frequently evaluations are made by men not at all conversant with land values. He cited instances where rank injustices had been done one or the other party in appraisals made in condemnation proceedings, estate settlements, and the like.

He asserted that it is a known fact that too frequently appraisals in condemnation proceedings are made by persons who receive a contingent fee from the property owner. In such instances, he said, it is to the interest of the appraiser to make the valuation as high as possible.

"Actual experience in the handling of real estate is an essential qualification in the appraiser," the realtor said. "Authority in valuation is predicated upon an intimate knowledge of real estate values in the immediate community where the appraisal is sought. Board appraising affords the combined judgment of the best informed realtors in the community, compared with a single outside opinion.

"In the very nature of things, outside opinion is unsound, for it always must depend upon borrowed 'hearsay' and not upon first hand knowledge. Only the local realtor can have that preparation. Land dealing in his job, He, alone, studies land in all its phases. Appraising is a service no other agency can render so well. As an appraiser, the realtor is both consultant and business advisor. His function goes beyond the mere fixing of values. His service contemplates the correct use of ground and its maximum earnings. It covers the assembling of data, highest utilization, probable developments and ability to correlate this information on an income analysis basis. This income appraising as a profession."

CLAIM PRISONER IS WANTED AT PRESIDIO

J. D. Lawhorn, who is serving a 300-day sentence in the county jail on a possession of liquor charge, is Bert Jackson, wanted at the Presidio, San Francisco, for being absent without leave, according to Jack Tinsley, chief of the Huntington Beach police department.

Lawhorn was arrested in the beach city last month with another man and woman, Eva Harris. The Harris woman today was given a 300-day sentence in the county jail on a vagrancy charge. The other man was released shortly after his arrest.

According to police, Lawhorn used the woman to lure prospective robbery victims to points of vantage.

Presidio authorities have been notified of the man's arrest.

Young Matron Plans
Birthday Surprise
For Husband

The sixth annual Christmas fete of the Robertson Electric corporation and its employees filled the Santa Ana Country club to overflowing last night in a holiday celebration unique in Santa Ana affairs. One hundred and eight employees and their immediate families gathered around the festive board under the twinkling lights of a gigantic Christmas tree, and were served an elaborate turkey dinner punctuated by high moments of jollification and stunt features.

A complete surprise occurred at 6:30 during the cocktail course when KNX broadcasting station at Hollywood suddenly announced that the following hour would be devoted to entertaining the employees of the Robertson Electric corporation, who were then dining at Santa Ana Country club. A feature of the entertainment was the excellent program given by the Atwater-Kent orchestra.

The fete was presided over by Orlyn Robertson and his mother, Mrs. J. G. Robertson. Mrs. L. W. MacFarlane was an ideal toastmistress, keeping the activities at high pitch with a deft touch at the proper place.

Following invocation by Mrs. Robertson, Master Chester Stearns delivered the "address of welcome." Charles Randall then sounded the keynote of the evening's fun with a clever "Broadcasting from Station JOY." Orlyn Robertson in a friendly informal talk bade everyone welcome, placed an official ban on care, asking only that the true spirit of Christmas might be present throughout the evening.

Following the sumptuous dinner the guests gathered around the fireplace and, to the tune of huge crackling logs, proceeded to enjoy themselves in the old-fashioned Christmas manner.

Talented members of the organization provided a program of entertainment, much of it impromptu. The performers included Don Hart, Billy Stearns and Billy Friend in Christmas recitations; Bob and Jack MacFarlane in a clever "sidewalk argument;" "RECO Broadcast" by I. W. MacFarlane in which members of the organization were the subjects of humorous situations; the "Hawaiian quartette" which proved instead to be a trio of entertaining little maids, Nina June Robertson, Armine Crawford and Lillian Newman. Norman Burgess did a slack wire stunt in a professional manner; assisted by his son, Emerson, climaxed by expert rifle shooting while balanced on the wire, one shot of which unfurled the Stars and Stripes. Emerson Burgess told a hilarious bootblack story.

After the program, it was announced that Santa Claus had just driven up and had honored the occasion by bringing Mrs. Claus along. To the surprise of everyone, there were two or more delightful gifts for every one presented. The skeptical ones who asserted "there is no Santa Claus," demanded their unmasking and Mrs. E. M. Hart as Santa and Cal Gilbert as Mrs. Santa were revealed to the disillusional.

Then, while the younger people danced and the older folk reluctantly turned homeward, there was finally the reflection from all that the evening had offered a demonstration of the so-called "old fashioned" Christmas spirit, glowing with sentiment, tugging with equal strength at the heartstrings of everyone young and old, the finest and best of all.

Bridge Players Hold Christmas Party

Mrs. Addie M. Collins was hostess at the regular meeting of the bridge club of which she is a member on Tuesday, and in honor of the Christmas season the affair was given the Yuletide atmosphere.

Luncheon was served at 1 o'clock, the table being centered with a miniature tree, gay with ornaments and tinsel, about which were placed the daintily wrapped parcels.

After an afternoon spent with auction bridge, the holder of high score was permitted the first choice of packages and so on down the list until all had received a gift.

The following members and substitutes participated in the pleasant affair, Mesdames M. A. Yarnell, W. A. Huff, Parke S. Roper, J. I. Clark, C. V. Davis, L. A. Collier, R. G. Tuthill and Charles Kelly.

Announcements

* Bell Book Review members will enjoy the hospitality of Miss Preble Drake, Mrs. Robert G. Tuthill and Mrs. W. L. Deimling next Tuesday afternoon at the home of the former, 1717 North Broadway. Janet Souder's "Modeling My Life" will be reviewed by Miss Jennie Lasby, the program to begin at 2 o'clock.

C. W. Chen, who holds the national pole vault championship of China, is now a star on the track team at Norwich University, Northfield, Vt. While a student at Tsing Hua college in China is said to have cleared the bar at 11 feet 6 inches.

Mrs. Grotty served fruit cake and orangeade during the afternoon. Those present were Mesdames J. W. Markey, Charles Schmidelberg, Frank Koss, George W. Young, Olive Lopez, Frank B. Smith, Joseph Haupert, John Rudolph, and the Misses Barbara and Bertha Klatt and Anna Young.

The next meeting will be held in two weeks at the Klatt home.

JAIL SENTENCE CURES CRAVING FOR NARCOTICS

Henry J. Miller Jr., actor and writer and son of the late Henry J. Miller, at one time America's foremost actor, was freed from the county jail today after serving a 10-month sentence for violation of the Harrison narcotics act.

Greatly improved physically since coming to Santa Ana, on April 8, after he had asked a Los Angeles judge to "put him away somewhere" so that he could not get "dope," Miller walked from the jail today with a bright look on life, determined to start life anew, free from the craving he had had for years.

Miller boarded a car for Los Angeles, where, he said, he would report to the Los Angeles probation office for further instructions. His sentence does not include an order for him to report in Los Angeles, but he said he wanted to start off right and would go there for a visit.

Miller is going to take a small job in a book store in Los Angeles and there try to fight his way back to the peaks he once attained in the movie world and on the legitimate stage.

Theater, Junior Chamber Arrange Kiddies' Matinee

The junior chamber of commerce, co-operating with the West Coast Walker theater, has arranged a kiddies' matinee, to be given Wednesday, December 22, at 2 o'clock, the admission fee being a toy, a jar of fruit or articles of discarded clothing that might be used by persons in need, junior chamber and theater officials announced today.

The entire West Coast Walker bill will be given. The gifts taken in at the door will be given the junior chamber of commerce officers for distribution Christmas eve.

All children bringing the necessary gifts will be admitted. Grown people will be charged the regular matinee admission rates. Mason Youl, president of the junior chamber, and Vic Walker, member of the theater staff, made the arrangements for the special matinee, which is expected to attract a capacity attendance.

FINAL PAYMENT TO ARCHITECT AGAIN HELD UP

Basing their action on statements contained in a special report submitted by George W. Duncan, business manager and superintendent of buildings and grounds, the Santa Ana city school trustees last night took another postponement on a request of Fredrik Eley, school architect, that he be paid in full for his services as architect in connection with the planning and erection of the recently completed Andrews gymnasium.

Instead of authorizing a voucher for $500 the amount said to be due the architect on his contract, the trustees directed the building superintendent, in conference with the architect and the sub-contractors on the job, to bring in an estimate of such alterations and repairs recommended in Duncan's report. It is the desire of the board to have as much as possible of this work done at once in order that the building may be utilized when school opens after the holiday vacations.

Goes Over Plans
In his report to the trustees, Duncan said that he has gone over the plans and specifications of the Andrews gymnasium and finds that they agree. "However, there is a number of things in connection with the design and construction of the gymnasium that are not according to the best practice."

Enumerating errors in design or defective construction, the building superintendent reported on the vacuum system in the swimming pool and pumping arrangements; the cement finish on the inside surface of the pool; the acoustic conditions of the bandroom; the ventilation of the auxiliary gymnasium; the heating system and a number of other alleged deficiencies.

Referring to the acoustics in the bandroom, Duncan reported as follows:

"The acoustic conditions of the bandroom are far from being satisfactory. In its present state, the use of this room by the band or even as a classroom, is out of the question. In an attempt to improve the conditions, I had wires strung across the room at a level with the picture moulding. While the wires help some, the acoustics are so bad that the band will not use the room. I would recommend that the matter be taken up with an expert on acoustics."

When the matter of paying Eley the amount due him on his contract came up for discussion, it was brought out that while there may be some defects in design and construction, the building has been built according to plans and specifications, as approved by the trustees, a fact which is supported in the building superintendent's report. Hence, it was thought by some members that Eley had a just claim.

Horton Opposes Payment
Dr. Roy S. Horton, registering his opposition to making final payment to Eley, pointed out that the architect had failed to live up to his contract in the matter of personal supervision of the job.

"In addition to the regular six per cent, Eley was granted an extra two per cent for personal supervision, making it a total of eight per cent in fees," declared Horton. "How Mr. Eley performed that service to the board at a distance of 6000 miles, touring Europe at the time, is beyond my understanding," the trustee added.

AUTOIST SERIOUSLY INJURED IN CRASH

A. J. Baker, of Long Beach, suffered a crushed cheek and severe cuts on his face last night, when his automobile crashed into a load of oil pipe at Huntington Beach. Following treatment in the Emergency hospital, he was taken to his home in Long Beach.

According to police, a truck, loaded with pipe, was standing in a driveway on Ocean avenue, with several pipes protruding into the street.

It was said that there was a red light on the pipe, but that it was coated with mud. The Baker car was badly damaged in the crash.

FORMER RING IDOL SERVING 30-DAY SENTENCE IN JAIL; GLORIES OF PAST VANISHED

In a cold cell in the Orange county jail sits a little dried-up man. Gray hairs at his temples have become prominent and deep lines show in his face. His name is Aurelio Herrera, 53, a Mexican.

To the present generation, the name of Aurelio Herrera means nothing—absolutely nothing, but to old-timers that name immediately throws their thoughts back to the early days of the 20th century, back to the days when this century was less than 10 years old.

In their minds a picture forms. It is a picture of the squared arena, men shouting, lights hanging low over the arena, men in the center, fighting. The men are of different nationalities. The one is Mexican, the other American.

Outstanding Lightweight

For Aurelio Herrera, in his day, was one of the best lightweights in the business. He was known from coast to coast as a coming champ, in those days.

But those days are long past, and today finds Aurelio Herrera, former top-notchler, a prisoner in the Orange county jail, a man down and out, a man on whom Dame Fortune has turned her head, a broken, poor piece of humanity.

Aurelio Herrera is spending 30 days in the county jail for vagrancy, a charge which, the statute defines as "roaming about from place to place, without visible means of support." This for Aurelio Herrera, who at times fought for the highest purses offered in that world where punching, ganging and sidestepping rules.

"I was on my way to Tia Juana, where I thought I could get a job," said Herrera. "I was idling with a man in his car. We came to San Juan Capistrano, and he said that was as far as we went; had no way to go any further, so they arrested me. Can't you get me out of here?" asked Herrera, the same Herrera who not so many years ago asked favors of no one.

"I used to have friends, that was when I had money, but the friends are all gone and so is the money. Things have come to a pretty pass," he said.

"I've got to get out. I'm broke, and my people are broke, and I have to make a living somewhere for them."

Man Remember Him

Hundreds of persons in Orange county remember Aurelio Herrera. What resident of Orange county in the early years of the 20th century does not remember the little San Jose Mexican, who fought his way from the bottom of the lightweight world to the very top?

His record is filled with other great records of sport in this country. It stands out on the pages of sport more than in the records of present-day lightweight fighters of note, because it was in those days that the lightweight crown was probably the most sought and by the best men whom the squared mat ever had.

Battling Nelson
Remember Battling Nelson, Abe Attel and Terry McGovern? Herrera knew them all, fought them, beat them and was beaten by them.

"My greatest fight was with Battling Nelson," he calmly said today, as he peered through the bars. His mind turned back to the old days when fighting was all he lived for.

That is all he said regarding the battle, but the records show that the fight was on of the most spectacular ever promoted in this country. It went for 20 round and was fought at Butte, Mont., with Nelson getting the decision in the end.

Began Career in 1898

Herrera started his ring career in 1898 with a knockout. He laid out Jack McCormack in four rounds. His last fight was on Sept. 23, 1909, at Bakersfield, when he lost to Dick Hyland on a decision, after he had fought the last several rounds with a broken hand.

Herrera's three greatest fights were with Abe Attel in Chicago, March 28, 1904, in which he lost in six rounds; "Battling" Nelson, at Butte, and with Terry McGovern, in 1901, which he also lost. He lost to Abe Attel in 1902, the records show.

In 1906, in Los Angeles, he knocked out Young Corbett, an idol of the ring.

His record reveals that, although he lost to the men who afterward became champions, he conquered more than 50 of the best by the knockout route, and won as many more from other no-decisions.

But that dream of former days has vanished now, and Aurelio Herrera is just a common vagrant, who sits behind the bars and wonders what he will do when the 30 days have expired and he again is thrown into a world that has forgotten him.

BANDITS UPSET STOVE AND SET STORE ON FIRE

Fire, which started when two bandits made a wild dash from the Westminster Drug company, Westminster, last night, after holding up and robbing the proprietor, Carl M. Hagan, and knocking over an oil stove in the rear of the building, damaged the interior of the drug store to the extent of $1000, according to a report filed with the sheriff's office.

Investigation made by Ed McClellan, chief criminal deputy sheriff, and Deputy Sheriff Jimmy Smith, disclosed that Hagan was alone in his store, shortly before 7 o'clock, last night, when two men, both Mexicans, walked into the place and covered him with a pistol, held in the hands of the smaller of the two men.

"We want your money, where is it?" the man with the gun asked.

Hagan pointed to the till, and while he was covered by the smaller of the two Mexicans, the other, who was masked, walked to the cash register and looted it, taking $12 in money.

Apparently dissatisfied with the loot, the small bandit asked for more money. He was told there was no more. He then switched the pistol from his right hand to his left hand, and struck Hagan in the mouth, knocking out several front teeth, according to officers.

The blow staggered Hagan. The Mexicans then ran toward the back door and in doing so, overturned the oil stove. Hagan reported that the fire quickly spread throughout the interior, damaging the building considerably before the flames could be extinguished.

CHORUS MEMBERS TO SING ON RADIO

For the purpose of broadcasting a program of an hour over radio KFON, Long Beach, between 7 and 8 o'clock tonight, 60 members of the Santa Ana Boys' chorus, accompanied by their directors and accompanists, were scheduled to leave at 5:45 p.m. today. The cars to convey the choristers were to be ready on Walnut street, in front of the high school, at the starting time, so as to reach the Jergins Trust building, corner of Ocean and Pine avenue, in which the radio station is housed, by 7 o'clock.

Robert Fernandez, committee chairman of the Santa Ana Junior Chamber of Commerce, which organization sponsored the chorus and had undertaken to transport 60 of the 160 members to Long Beach, said that several more cars could be used for the trip.

The following named, he said, have volunteered to provide cars and drivers for the journey to Long Beach and return: Ridley Smith, William Iverson, Marmon Sales and Service company, Cadillac garage, George Dunton company, E. E. Frisby, William Lawrence, Robert Fernandez and Merle Hussong.

ATTRACTIOMS AT LOCAL THEATERS

Bebe Daniels and James Hall in a scene from "Stranded in Paris," picture opening Sunday at the Yost Broadway theater.

YOST BROADWAY THEATER

Flashy, vigorous and extremely human is "Stranded in Paris," Bebe Daniels' comedy of Parisian life which opens at the Yost Broadway theater.

Supported by James Hall, Ford Sterling and Iris Stuart, Miss Daniels, fresh from her triumph in "The Campus Flirt," which shattered attendance records in practically every city it appeared, has contributed one of the most deliciously perky performances ever witnessed on a screen.

Starting with swiftness and gaining momentum as it unrolls, piling situation upon situation, the climax is reached in a thrilling tally-ho chase down a steep, narrow incline.

The story goes from a drab boarding house in the United States to the famous cafes and modiste shops of Paris.

Aside from Miss Daniels, Hall, Sterling and Miss Stuart—others in the cast of the picture are Maude Julianne Scott, Helen Dunbar, Ida Darling and Tom Ricketts.

WEST COAST-WALKER
Prophets of Hollywood are not without honor in their own country, for Vilma Banky, the "find" brought to America about a short time ago and greeted with prophecies by Charlie Chaplin, Elinor Glyn, Joseph M. Schenck, Rudolph Valentino, Sid Grauman, Sally James Farnham and Director George Fitzmaurice, has made good.

After only three American pictures, one with Ronald Colman and two with Rudolph Valentino, Miss Banky is co-starred with Ronald Colman in "The Winning of Barbara Worth," current attraction at the West Coast-Walker theater.

When the blonde beauty who plays Barbara Worth in the production of the Harold Bell Wright story came to America but a few years ago, Charlie Chaplin said: "Miss Banky has unusual qualities for the screen, dramatic power and refinement of feeling, rare beauty and magnetism, and an unusual fitness in her technique, which should establish her as one of the great stars of the screen."

DETROIT CLUB RICHEST
DETROIT, Dec. 18.—The Detroit Golf club is recognized as the richest organization of its kind in the world. It is situated two miles within the city limits of Detroit, consists of 212 acres valued at $21,000,000. It costs $10,000 to become a member of the club.

Mae Murray and Lloyd Hughes in a scene from "Valencia," picture opening at the West Coast-Walker theater tomorrow.

RAIN' COMING TO YOST DECEMBER 30

Isabel Withers, star of "Rain," which will be produced at the Yost theater here December 30, has been one of America's most popular actresses for the past five years.

Miss Withers first came into prominence on the Pacific Coast by playing the leading feminine role in "Cappy Ricks," in which she co-starred with Tom Wise and William Courtenay. Later she was seen throughout the country in "Keep Her Smiling." Her last starring vehicle was "Love 'Em and Leave 'Em," which enjoyed a 15-weeks' run in San Francisco.

Miss Withers toured the Orpheum circuit last year with Wally Eddinger in a one-act sketch. She is particularly popular on Broadway, and made a real sensation in the leading feminine role in "Kempie," at the Belmont theater.

Previously to that, she appeared at the Hudson theater in "The Tavern."

Among America's youthful stars, Miss Withers is perhaps best suited to follow Jeanne Eagels in "Rain." She possesses the same brilliant talents, the wonderful vocal range and the ability to bring a smile or a tear from the spectator at will.

YOST THEATER

Johnnie Walker has just returned from a trip to Alaska after making scenes for "Morgan's Finish," picture closing tonight at the Yost theater, from the story of the same name by Jack London. While there Walker got a taste of what the pioneers of the gold rush must have experienced in their battle with the elements. While crossing one of the dangerous rapids in a boat, for one of the scenes, he was thrown into the icy waters and with great difficulty made the shore. He was so chilled that heroic measures were taken to ward off pneumonia. As a souvenir of his visit he was presented with several gold nuggets by some miners who had seen him in several of his pictures.

It Pays Every Buyer in the Santa Ana Valley to Patronize Home Industry

Orange County and the City of Santa Ana Are Benefited Alike by the Buying-at-Home Movement!

The words "Home Markets" means all Santa Ana and every nook and corner of Orange County as well.

The destinies of this city and the vast realm of wealth on all sides of it are united. Their commercial interests are one.

Santa Ana and Orange County should patronize each other's industries to the fullest extent. Strong co-operation in this respect will strengthen both, and give both increased prosperity. That is the goal which the BUY MADE-AT-HOME PRODUCTS movement aims to reach. That is the reason for the slogan "Buy the goods that are made, grown or put up in Santa Ana or Orange County."

If our community does not prosper and develop, then our boys and girls must go to one that does.

We can create places for everyone of them, and more, too, by insisting on getting the Made-At-Home articles listed below, whenever we buy anything that our market produces.

The plan is so simple that we have almost entirely overlooked it, but it works. It has been proven. There is no longer any doubt about it.

The only question remaining is: WILL YOU DO IT? You surely cannot refuse when you once understand how much it means.

It strikes right home, you, your boy or girl, your neighbor or friend, one and all are directly affected by the prosperity of our factories and community. Prosperity is bound to follow in the wake of religiously carrying out the idea of patronizing Home Industry.

$ Co-operation in community development must be the key note of our future prosperity.

$ If the merchant with whom you trade cannot supply you with home products go to the one that can and will. Don't let anything turn you from your determination to do your part towards building up the industries of not only Santa Ana, but all of Orange County —making our community busier, brighter, better and a happier place in which to live.

$ The buying home products movement is a common cause in which everyone in Santa Ana should join. Every buyer throughout this section should be a Made-At-Home products booster.

$ Are you one of these? If not, remember that it is not too late to begin to buy local products —to boost the community, and thus benefit yourself. Your help is needed. Let your good intentions grow into good actions. Begin to study the list below of the things you can buy that are made in Santa Ana and Orange County. Begin today to buy these things. You may rest assured it will pay you to do so. You will get good goods, rightly priced, and you will feel the benefits of living in a community the prosperity of which will be stabilized by industrial expansion.

A Merry Christmas and Happy New Year to All Home Market Boosters

SMALL CAR OF SIX CYLINDERS TO GAIN PLACE OF LEADERSHIP

Custom Built Bodies, Greater Acceleration Will Be Featured

SEES FINIS FOR LUMBERING MODELS

Light, Vibrationless Types To Be Favored Is Engineer's View

The small car with a highly perfected six-cylinder engine will replace the cheap four-cylinder car and the heavier sixes if the predictions of Thomas J. Little Jr., president of the Society of Automotive Engineers, are fulfilled.

The small car of the future will not necessarily be a cheap car, for it will embody all of the efficiency and refinements of the highest development of automotive engineering, he says.

"This type of car," says Little, "will be fitted with a custom-built body and engineering effort will develop the same riding qualities and greater acceleration than the large de luxe car now possesses."

The low-priced four-cylinder motor gradually will pass away and be superseded and outperformed by the smooth-running six, which will be a little high-speed, high-compression, high-economy engine.

"I predict the gradual elimination of a great many of our present-day cars. The public soon will discard the lumbering cars and cease buying the cheap vibrating ones. Then the revolution in engineering will be complete."

The little racing autos which came into prominence last season are serving as a pattern for the every day car of the future, Little says.

Speed will not be emphasized as much as in the racers, but the high-speed engine and small body will predominate, according to Little's observations.

The supercharger which will aid the construction of small, efficient

Brake Equalizer Stops Skidding Of Automobiles

Automobile skidding may be prevented by the use of an equalizer which varies the braking pressure on the brake drums of the wheels on the opposite sides of the car as the friction or hold of the tires on the two sides varies. G. L. Smith of the Washington section of the Society of Automotive Engineers is the inventor of the brake equalizer.

MARMON WILL INTRODUCE NEW LITTLE MODELS

The Marmon Motor Car company is the fine car manufacturing concern which will bring out in January a little car that has been anticipated for months as the product of some of the well established factories, according to a declaration here today by Frank Hammert of the Marmon Sales and Service company.

A full line of what is to be known as the "Little Mormon" will be manufactured, the line embracing collapsible coupe roadster, two-passenger coupe, two-passenger speedster, four-door sedan, and two-door sedan, all with standard and custom built bodies.

The new models will sell here around $2200, in the opinion of Hammert, who said that he had not yet received definite details as to retail prices. He pointed out, however, that the factory price would be close to $1900 and that freight and other charges would have to be added.

"In size, the new models will be ample for comfortable touring and small enough to move easily in and out of traffic," the dealer stated. "They will embody features that have made the Marmon product popular and will speed up to 70 miles an hour.

The Little Marmon, undoubtedly, will be unique among automobiles, and will meet the demand of the public for smaller cars of the better type. The same high precision which marks the manufacture of the larger models will prevail in the small car."

Hammert has been informed that deliveries will start in January, but he was not certain whether he would be able to obtain a model by that time.

ABERDEEN, Wn., Dec. 18.—The Crown-Willamette Paper company will build a paper pulp mill of 100-ton capacity in Aberdeen in the immediate future, it was definitely announced here.

Speed will not be emphasized as much as in the racers, but the high-speed engine and small body will predominate, according to Little's observations.

Sales of Autos To Bootleggers Is Bad Business

Repeated court decisions, which cause automobile finance companies to stand the loss when a bootlegger's car is confiscated, make sales on time payments basis to rum runners a poor business policy. Under the present system, a car filled with illicit liquor is confiscated by the government and the dealer who sold the car often has found it difficult to collect remaining payments.

WINTER HAS NO TROUBLES FOR CALIF. DRIVERS

"If winter comes what do we care?" wrote Bud Lands in the National Auto Club magazine.

King Winter is already here, touring season out here where the Long may he rain!

There is no such thing as a wet begins. It's a year around proposition, and about all the preparation a California motorist need make for winter is to put on his heavy insurance. Naturally, during the damp and chilly days a person feels more comfortable with full coverage.

On the first slippery morning every driver should hurry down and have his car measured for a weather proof policy. One that will shed repair bills, turn aside fire loss and shut out cold weather.

Pedestrians Object

Some motorists manage to slip through wet weather without trouble. Others find that the average pedestrian resents being run over by muddy wheels and usually demands that his bruises be soothed with a court plaster. Self preservation used to be the first law of nature, but it has been amended with a liability clause.

A rundown walker doesn't care to be rushed to the hospital. He wants to be driven to the court house. He prefers his injuries treated, not with ointment but with judgment.

The autoist who carries insurance and side curtains is ready for any California winter. The only thing he has to fear in bad weather is a heavy sun storm. Although of late the freckle epidemic has been exceedingly light and in two winters there has been but one fatality resulting from slapping a sunburned sufferer on the back.

Brown Is Popular

Brown is a popular shade this year and it is quite likely that many dressy motorists will tour considerably between now and spring with the intention of deliberately exposing themselves to a stylish coat of tan.

Last year, in the dead of winter, a driver ran square into a lamp post. He had been blinded by bright rays during a sun storm. Fortunately for him, his accident insurance was folded double over his bank book. Flying glass would have cut deeply into his balance had not the particles been turned aside by the protecting policy.

But while touring continues perpetually in the west such is not the case everywhere. Each year winter touring takes the east by storm.

Back on the other side of the Rocky Mountains traffic streams are frozen over from November to May—not just for a year, but always.

Your eastern car owner has his automobile up on crutches half the time. He puts his battery in cold storage in the autumn and empties the radiator so it can rust in pieces.

Before Thanksgiving the open roads back yonder are all closed for the season. Then comes the snow and the situation is covered completely. For the next six months the only contact the easterner has with his motor are the regular payment notices.

IMPROVEMENTS IN FORD CAR LISTED

Improvements and additions to the Ford car worth $150 and representing an increase averaging 30 per cent in value without any increase in price, have been made standard equipment by the Ford Motor company during the last few months, according to George Dunton, Ford dealer, here.

Some of the major changes are an all-steel body, six body colors, balloon tires, a new carburetor and vaporizer and wire wheels as standard equipment on the four-door sedan and optional equipment on other models.

Although less spectacular than some of the other changes, the all-steel body is regarded as one of the most important changes ever made by Henry Ford, and they are emphasizing this improvement this week in all their showroom displays and sales efforts.

"Few people realize," said Mr. Dunton, "how much greater value Ford is giving today than a year ago. The improvements and additional equipment, which have been added without any increase in price, would easily cost $150. To realize the full significance of this, it is necessary to remember that this is approximately a 30 per cent increase in value."

LOCAL AGENCIES OFFER ASSISTANCE

White Certificate All That Is Necessary for Renewal
Of Car Paper

By HORACE FINE
(Automobile Editor Register)

The season of trouble for motor owners in renewal of licenses is fast approaching. And still there should be no trouble for the process of filing an application for renewal as simple as can be.

Some motorists already have sent applications into the motor vehicle department, although attention to such applications is not contemplated prior to January 3. All owners must have their application on file before February 1, 1927, otherwise they will be liable to penalty.

Insurance agents representing the National Automobile club, the Santa Ana branch of the Auto Club of Southern California, and Orange County automobile club, the Motor Vehicle Registration Service at 114 West Third street, and other local agencies are open to motorists for registration service. Applications may be mailed to the department at Sacramento or may be made in person at the branch office in Los Angeles.

Following is detail information that will be of value in guiding motorists with respect to filing of applications:

The certificate of registration (white certificate) will constitute application for renewal. Before mailing or presenting this, be sure and check the address shown on the certificate, as the new 1927 certificate will be mailed to the address shown on the certificate. If this is incorrect, it is very likely that the new certificate will go astray in the mail and you will have to pay 50 cents for a duplicate certificate, therefore, do not fail to verify the address given.

The pink certificate, which is known as the "certificate of ownership," will not be accepted as an application for a straight renewal.

The renewal fee is the same as last year, $3 for a straight renewal.

If your certificate of registration is illegible, it will not be accepted by the division of motor vehicles and it will be necessary for you to apply for a duplicate certificate of registration, for which there will be a charge of 50 cents. If the certificate is illegible and the renewal is presented directly, local representatives included, you may save the delay of having your application for duplicate certificate of registration sent to Sacramento, by taking your certificate of ownership (pink slip) along with you and the party accepting your application will verify your name, address, license and engine numbers with the pink slip, and, if found to be correct, you will receive your 1927 plates without delay. If any part of your certificate of registration is illegible, i.e., the name, license number, engine number, or make of the vehicle, then do not fail to verify the address given.

Whippet Stamina proved in Dramatic Non-stop Run

Roars 500 miles at Rockingham Speedway with throttle wide open in 10 hours, 23 minutes, 14 seconds

With throttle wide open, a stock model Whippet, fully equipped, even to spare tire, traveled 500 miles in 10 hours, 23 minutes and 14 seconds in a dramatic speed and durability test recently held at Rockingham Speedway, Salem, N. H.

Bucking a terrific 50 mile gale, the Whippet's performance was declared by observers equal to that of many $15,000 racing cars. Without adjustments . . . without overheating . . . without replacements . . . this tells the story of Whippet stamina and performance.

Now add to this the outstanding Whippet advantages of "30 miles on a gallon", 4-wheel brakes and low gravity center, and you have the reason why scores of thousands of people are today driving this famous car. See it before you buy.

$695 WHIPPET SEDAN

Other Whippet prices are: Coupe $645; Touring $645; prices f.o.b. factory.

Prices and specifications subject to change without notice. The Willys Finance Plan offers unusually attractive credit terms. Willys-Overland, Inc., Toledo, Ohio.

car, the foregoing procedure will be necessary.

If you have inadvertently lost your 1926 certificate of registration, you will follow the same procedure as outlined in the foregoing paragraph, fill out an application for duplicate certificate of registration making your check in the amount of $3.50. Fifty cents of this is for the duplicate certificate and $8 for the renewal fee.

If your car has been bought under contract, and you have paid for it during the past year, in order to clear the vendor's name as legal owner, it is necessary that the legal owner sign on the reverse side of the certificate of ownership (pink slip) on the second line. If the legal owner is a company, the name of said company must be countersigned by some members of the firm in authority. A fee of $1 is charged by the state for making this transfer therefore, making your remittance in the amount of $4. Three dollars for the 1927 license and $1 for the release of legal ownership.

A transfer of ownership is distinguished from a release of legal ownership in that the ownership of the car is transferred from one individual or corporation to another individual or corporation and the name of the registered owner is changed. In the release of legal ownership, the name of the registered owner remains the same. A fee of $1 for a transfer is also required. If there is more than one transfer on a certificate of ownership, a fee of $1 is charged for each and every transfer.

Note that all releases of legal ownership and transfers require the certificate of ownership (pink slip) as this is the only bill of sale recognized by the division of motor vehicles.

The procedure for renewal licenses on electrics is exactly the same as for gasoline cars, excepting that the fee is $13 for the year instead of $3.

In applying for commercial license, be sure that you submit the proper weight fee, which is charged as follows:

Weighing less than 3000 lbs., unladen, $10.

Weighing more than 3000 lbs. but less than 6000 lbs., unladen, $20.

Weighing more than 6000 lbs. but less than 10,000 lbs., unladen, $30.

Weighing 10,000 lbs. or more unladen, $40.

If such vehicles are equipped wholly with pneumatic tires, there shall be paid in addition to the $3 registration fee, one-half the fees set forth in the foregoing table.

engine is being studied and tested in the laboratories of the larger automobile factories.

The supercharger and high-compression fuels will modify engine design in favor of a high-performance small car.

"Following the advent of the small car will be the development of cars of the medium price class in somewhat cheaper production," Little concludes.

expect to have a new car in stock during December.

"The situation of many agents being without cars for the Christmas month is unusual," the agent said. "Believing there would be enough cars left in the hands of dealers on December 1 to meet the demands of their respective communities for at least two weeks the manufacturing company started its annual inventory at that time, the result being the shortage of cars."

"We have received information from headquarters in Detroit that all of the Chevrolet plants have been enlarged to provide for a 33 1/3 per cent increase in production during 1927. The capacity for 1927 will be 1,200,000 machines. The final figures for 1926 are not available, but it has been estimated that for the calendar year total deliveries will approximate 875,000 autos."

Has Active Agency

According to O. C. Shultz, factory representative in Los Angeles, MacMullen has one of the most active agencies representing the Chevrolet company. He was highly complimentary concerning the effective manner in which MacMullen has built up his organization. It was pointed out that when the Santa Ana man took over the franchise here on May 15, 1925, there were but eight men in the organization. The payroll today embraces the names of 25 men and women.

Commenting on his success, MacMullen said that he considered Orange county one of the most productive and prosperous counties in the state and that Santa Ana is one of the finest home cities in the Southland.

"I am delighted with the city and the county and expect to make this my home for all time," the dealer said. "I have had a successful business year and I attribute my success largely to approval by the public of policies I have put in effect. I find people here particularly receptive to the policy of square dealing and courteous treatment.

"I have a good organization, each and every employee being on his toes to render competent and efficient service to patrons. It was the interest and loyalty of the members of my organization that made it possible for the agency to make the record established in November."

HIGH SPEED MARK SET BY CHRYSLER

The ability of the Chrysler Imperial "80" to maintain high speed for hours at a time has aroused widespread comment among motor car enthusiasts which, in turn, has brought forth from Fred M. Zeder, vice president in charge of engineering of the Chrysler corporation, a statement concerning the reasons for producing such a high-speed car.

"The Chrysler Imperial "80" is not merely a high-speed car," Mr. Zeder declares. "It was not designed and built because we think owners will want to go speeding about the country at 80 miles an hour, nor because we want to encourage fast driving. But we did design and build it—and its high speed is emphasized—because the built-in emphasis of an automobile to reach and maintain a very high speed is the best assurance of manufacturing soundness, long life, freedom from replacements and, consequently, economy of operation.

"The Pidgin English, that linguistic atrocity born of foreign indolence in past years, is practically unknown in Peking and the indications are that it will speedily die out throughout China. In Peking one must learn to speak a certain amount of Chinese, or if one prefers he can easily hire servants who speak very respectable English.

Although first experience with the Far East usually brings with it a keen interest in and even a certain admiration for the jargon known as pidgin English, only the most condescending type of foreigner and the most syncopated type of Chinese can long endure it. For it is a makeshift at best, neither English nor Chinese but partaking of both, and any Chinese of foreigner of intelligence can learn more or less English or Chinese respectively in less time than it takes to acquire familiarity with pidgin.

To be more specific, the foreign visitor to Peking finds that for a total time expenditure of perhaps 60 hours and a total outlay of about $25 U. S. currency, he can learn enough Mandarin, the official Chinese language to express everything he could possibly wish to say.

With only four other cars of large production in the four-cylinder field, it is exceedingly easy to recognize the outstanding values of the Chrysler "50" and decide which car to buy.

In point of full-size, family seating room, beauty of design, beauty of finish, and power the Chrysler "50" stands out so unmistakably that you recognize the price at once as far and away the greatest offering ever made in four-cylinder cars.

It will continue to yield a sustained speed of 50 miles and more per hour, 5 to 25 miles in 8 seconds, and 25 miles to the gallon—for months and for years, as the result of Chrysler's plan of Quality Standardization.

At last it is possible for you to make a convincing and conclusive comparison of values—studying the comfort, appearance and performance factors of the Chrysler "50" in comparison with everything else offered—and satisfy yourself at a glance in which car you should invest your money.

GIVE HIM WHAT HE WANTS*ANCIENT STEEL ENGRAVING NOW OWNED IN S. A.

A steel engraving, made almost 200 years ago, is now the property of a Santa Ana man, H. C. Wollert of the Wollert Paint and Wall Paper store, on West Fourth street. The engraving, which is called "La Boudoir," was made in France in 1737, which is all of its early history that is known.

The engraving was found 22 years ago by Wollert in an antique store in Chicago, where it had lain for some time, according to the owner of that store. It was in an ancient gilt frame and was considered of little value by its former owner.

The engraving is in colors and is, as the name suggests, a scene in the boudoir of a lady of the early part of the 18th century. In the picture appears the evident owner of the room clad in a beautiful gown of that period. The engraving is carefully and completely made and is almost the only one of its kind in existence, according to Wollert.

Another interesting type of steel engraving is one that he now has in his possession but which belongs to Mrs. A. W. Johnson, 429 East Sixth street. This engraving is only 50 years old, but is remarkable for the excellent detail of the work. It is entitled "The Bewildered Hunter," and shows a hunter and his dog standing in a copse where, hidden in the surrounding trees and brush are several wild animals. So well are they made a part of the surrounding scenery that one, looking at the picture, must gaze at it steadily for several moments before the animals appear. When viewing this engraving for the first time, one is reminded almost instantly of Kipling's story, "How the Leopard Got His Spots," in which is a picture where it is necessary to study the trees and bushes carefully before one can make out the shapes of various animals.

These engravings are on exhibition at Wollert's paint store and he has invited the public to inspect them.

SMITHY INHERITS $500,000 FORTUNE

SAN JOSE, Dec. 18.—Informed by Washington, D. C., attorneys that he is about to receive $500,000 willed him by his brother, Russell P. Kenyon, 67, a blacksmith here, doesn't see what good the money is going to do him, except to "buy Christmas presents for my friends."

Kenyon, who has had a blacksmith shop here for 22 years, received word from executors of the estate of the late Clarence A. Kenyon, tire and raincoat manufacturer, that he will receive, with four other brothers and three sisters, an equal share in his brother's estate, totaling approximately $5,000,000.

"Since the old horse and buggy days," Kenyon declared, "the blacksmith business hasn't been so good. But I'm still able to earn a comfortable living and I'd feel lost away from the shop. I'm going to stay right here with the anvils for while anyway."

RANKIN STORE EMPLOYEES TO SING CAROLS

Continuing a custom established several years ago, which met with success and approbation, the employees of the Rankin Dry Goods company will celebrate the holiday season with certain intervals next week devoted to singing Christmas carols.

It was announced today that Wednesday, December 22, would bring the first of the public concerts, when the singers will congregate near the main entrance and give a program of carols and the best loved Christmas songs, at 5:10 p.m. Holly Lash Visel is directing again this year and Mrs. Marie Fowler will act as accompanist.

In addition a group of the city's favorite soloists will aid on different programs. These will include Sally Lee Scales and Maurice Phillips, vocalists, and Edward Burns, cellist.

Following the opening program just after closing hours, will be one on Thursday and again on Friday, just at noon, when carols will be sung from the balcony of the store.

The idea was conceived several years ago by the store organization, but never put into effect publicly until two years ago, when the first public performance was given. It was repeated last year to the great interest of crowds of shoppers, and present plans would indicate that this, the third successive year, would surpass in interest those that have preceded it. There are approximately 50 voices in the choruses and some talented singers are being developed as a result of the interest taken. The store expects to make the affair one of increasing importance and worth to the community as the years go on.

Michigan Is Too Cold for Eskimo

SEATTLE, Dec. 18.—It is so cold in Lowell, Mich., that George Washington Hysuk, an Eskimo, whose home is north of Nome, wants to go back to Alaska.

Hysuk is driving a reindeer team in Christmas parades.

Jonathan H. Wagner, chief of the Alaska division of the bureau of education, received the following letter from the Eskimo.

"I wish I could get back home. It is very cold and unpleasant here with snow and sleet and the roads very bad, so it is hard to get around."

BEAUTY MUST HAVE INCLOSED AUTOMOBILE BUT THIS BEAUTY REALLY IS MERE MALE

The "classy dame" in this picture is none other than A. M. (Doc) Stanley, versatile secretary and manager of the Orange County Farm Bureau, who impersonated a home demonstration agent at the stunt night program of the convention of the California Farm Bureau Federation, held here December 9. The car is a new series Essex six sedan Stanley has just purchased from the Hub Motors company, at First and Main. According to D. W. Shira, manager of the motors company, two "nicely put up jobs" are represented in the picture.

A. M. Stanley Provides Pulchritude for Picture Of Essex Car

A. M. (Doc) Stanley, secretary and manager of the Orange County Farm Bureau, demonstrated his versatility when he impersonated a home demonstration agent at the stunts night program given in Garden Grove as a concluding feature of the convention of California Farm Bureau Federation, region No. 1, held in Santa Ana on December 9. The region comprises five Southern California counties.

Orange is the only county in the group without a feminine representative of the University of California and this situation prompted the impersonation. The "home demon," as such demonstrators are called in the vernacular of farm bureau folk, essayed to tell those in his audience how to raise children, cook foods properly and how to do many things about the home. The stunt went over big and it was decided that Stanley's impersonation was so perfect that few in the audience realized that a he-man was putting something over on them.

And while Stanley was going through his stunt, Mrs. Stanley and the "old family bus" were having troubles of their own, for they came in contact with a truck of the Santa Ana Ice company, with the result that the bus and truck went to a gasoline hospital.

In this situation, it was not hard for the farm bureau secretary to convince himself that such a dainty bit of femininity as himself could not afford to ride in anything but an inclosed car. Solution of his problem was made when he visited the Hub Motors company, Hudson and Essex distributor, at First and Main streets, and the manager, D. W. Shira, showed him one of the new series Essex six sedans. Stanley now is driving one of the two models that have been received by the agent.

"It's the last word in closed car comfort," Stanley commented today.

The great value in closed car comforts, which gave the Coach its enormous vogue, is now combined with deluxe attractions of appointment, color and beauty in a new popular favorite—the Special Coach.

It shares with the Brougham a place of distinction in appearance and comfort among far higher priced cars. Only the costliest approach its brilliancy of action, smoothness and power.

Gasoline mileage is greatly improved. Refinements and improvements centered around the famous Super-Six principle.

give greater smoothness, freedom from vibration and closely perfect all the great results of this exclusive Hudson advantage.

Hudson's always brilliant performance is bettered. Power is greater. Pick-up is quicker. Reliability is increased. Motor life is lengthened. Repair needs are even more infrequent.

Today's Hudson, in all models, reaches new heights of supremacy in motor values—the greatest achievement in Hudson's long known policy of giving most for the money.

A Year's Record as a Guide to Buyers

The facts regarding Dodge Brothers sales during 1926 are worth recording. They represent the ever-increasing recognition of fundamental worth and extra value.

As the year draws to a close, the sales approximate 340,000 cars—an increase of more than 30% over 1925.

This again tells the story of public appreciation of dependability, but tells it more impressively than ever before. It reflects the value and importance of the numerous improvements that create an even greater degree of smoothness, silence and ease. It emphasizes the greater comfort and beauty.

The record for 1926, both in engineering progress and sales growth, is the best in Dodge Brothers history. In sum and substance it is nothing less than a helpful guide to every buyer who seeks the largest possible value for each dollar expended.

Would This Get You?

"So now, though the still Has gone from the hill, I can get a thrill, you see, From eyes like thine, Which look into mine."

He wrote that all by himself, did the millionaire "shovel king" who wrote so much lilting love poetry that he's in court today trying to keep from paying $500,000 breach of promise money to the lady who so moved him.

All I arise to remark that any girl who had to read that should get no less than a million!

Merry Christmas!

Here's a clever and economical Christmas idea boldly "swiped" from a certain family. This family decided that one gift should go from them to the other family, rather than a gift from each member of one tribe to each member of the other. They decided on a League of Nation's basket.

Caviar from Russia, cheese from Holland, English toffee, French truffles, rice wafers from Japan, Swiss chocolate maple sugar from America, etc. They say it made a big hit.

In the Woods

When Zona Gale was a little girl, so she tells the story now that she is a grown up lady and a famous author, she played a game called "In the Deep Woods." Such a simple little game. All the little girl did was sit in a corner of the room behind a big open umbrella and imagine that she was far away from everybody. This trick of the little girl and the umbrella may largely explain why Zona Gale is the famous lady she is today. She had time to think!

We Need Umbrellas

All of us, and more than any of us, wives and mothers, need the big black umbrella. People whose days are a round of contact with other people find aloneness hard to attain, and rasped nerves hard to the result. I heartily favor "dents" for both the man and the woman of the house. Padlock 'em, if necessary, to keep it your own "den" indeed and not merely another room for the entire household.

Castles in Spain

Remember that old play called "Castles in Spain"? About the old women in the infirmary who found life sweeter when someone had the bright idea of dividing the one big dormitory into private rooms by the simple means of drawing chalk marks on the floor? No one entered another "den" without "knocking," and new self-respect dawned for the old women.

There's a book called "The Room." It is the story of a woman who all her life hungered for a room of her own, and finally "made a mess of her life," squandering everything for that room of her own—and then didn't get it.

Rose By Any Other Name

The club girls are "all het up" again. It's because of the first sentence of paragraph 158 "Women Doing Housework," or "Instructions to Enumerators," U. S. Census Bureau, January 1, 1920.

The General Federation of Women's Clubs requests that the title "women doing housework" be changed to "home-maker."

It's very nice, of course, to attempt for titles of proper respect. But whether the "home-maker" will find dish-washing any more pleasant than "the woman doing housework" is quite a question.

But if Maria Ludovica Calvi should grow up to be a female Adolf Hitler with a predilection for appearing in public there would be a

WHAT DENTISTS SAY

Every dentist will give you a different method of saving your teeth, if you go to three or four, you'll be in a beautifully bewildered state as to which treatment is the best to save your teeth to the end of your life.

But here's a suggestion from practical experience. It's hard to find a really good tooth brush. I know there are hundreds of shapes and sizes in the shops, but I never found the sort that my dentist and myself happen to agree is the most satisfactory. So I made it. I started with an ordinary well-shaped, stiff bristle tooth brush, each bunch of bristles being shaved to a point, so the hairs were different lengths—a dozen brands are made this way—and having on the end a longer blob of bristles. These get between the teeth more easily. I then took a sharp knife and shaved off the bristles beginning at the handle, until I had to cut off about one-third. This gives me a brush two-thirds the length of the ordinary kind.

And then I doctor the bunches of bristles left. I cut off a little from the first row, and a little less from the next row and a little less near the handle, the longer ones near the middle, the blob at the end.

Evelynne.—You appear to be too stout all over and the best way to reduce in that case is by dieting. Eat less of all starchy and sweet foods.

Jane T. H.—The only effect the white of egg has on your hair is to absorb the oil, but it cannot cure the condition. Try eating much more fruit and if that does not help have your doctor prescribe for you, as the cause for an oily scalp is poor elimination.

Italy Wonders What Will Happen to Musical Prodigy

BY ALICE ROHE

Special NEA Service Correspondent

ROME, Dec. 18—If a musical prodigy happens to be the granddaughter of a king—what is to be done about it? Shall she be encouraged toward a career or shall she be trained for parlor politeness only?

That is the problem which may some day confront the royal household of Italy, for the three-year-old daughter of Princess Yolanda has shown her bent toward music.

Yolanda, most beautiful of European princesses, shocked the world of crowns and diplomats when she fell in love with Count Calvi di Bergolo. To be sure he comes of an excellent old family, but he is not of royal blood. The gentle, soft-eyed Yolanda, who never could bring herself to an interest in crowned circles, showed herself very determined when it came to the man she loved. So they were married and Contessina Maria Ludovica Calvi is their first child. The second child, born a year ago, died of pneumonia shortly after its birth.

All of the royal children of the house of Savoy are music lovers. The Crown Prince Humbert also is an artist of no small ability. It is not surprising that this little Maria Ludovica, reared in a land of melody, should be in love with music. But that she should cry for a piano like other babies cry for teddy bears—is regarded as precocious.

She is happiest when some one is playing the piano, and she doesn't like jazz. Indeed, her royal mother entertains her baby with Chopin and Beethoven as well as the Italian masters. What pleases the royal mother and grandparents, and at the same time gives rise to meditation, is the baby's aptitude to finger the keys. She can create tiny melodies and never hammers the keys just to make a noise.

But if Maria Ludovica Calvi should grow up to be a female Adolf Hitler with a predilection for appearing in public there would be a problem even in this age of changing habits for royalty.

Of course little Contessina Maria is not counted as a royal princess even though she is a granddaughter of a king. When her mother married Count Calvi she lost royal precedence. At royal functions, such as state dinners to King George and Queen Mary, the Countess Calvi di Bergola could not be present.

All of which may determine Maria Ludovica, when she gets a little older, to take up the piano keys in her own hands and show what an Italian with royal blood in her veins can do as a musical prodigy.

Financial and Market News

WALL ST. JOURNAL

* NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—Steel companies are giving a broad way and session. While this leader was digesting its recent substantial rise, however, the market as a whole continued downward. The general advance was ahead in trend favorably.

It was evident from the action of the general list that constructive interests looked upon the 10 per cent stock market as marking a new phase of the forward movement instead of a signal that it was time to get out of the market because the good news was out.

Confidence prevailed in the financial community that the upswing would continue. In view of the Christmas holidays and this expectation brought out urgent demand in the representative issues of various departments. In spite of the fact that the market was still strong, the buying showed a decided tendency to favor the odd shares of companies with large surplus funds. This has not yet been carried through, and we may therefore expect additional possibilities in that direction.

The market closed higher.

WARNER WORKS ON STANFORD OFFENSIVE

VARYING SUCCESS

"How do you explain the wide difference that very often exists in the work of some star player over a period of two successive years?"

That was the question one of those analytical fans slipped me the other day.

Then, to be more specific, he named a certain big league pitcher, several of them, in fact, who almost doubled their victories of this year over last.

He also called my attention to five batters who jumped their average from 40 to 75 points and pointed out five others who had slumped correspondingly.

Baseball is such an uncertain sport, with so many ifs and ands scattered through it, that it is rather hard to define the exact reason for the varying success of the athletes.

PROPER ATTITUDE

Sometimes dissatisfaction with surroundings and environment plays havoc with the work of a player.

As a concrete example I offer Lu Blue, first baseman of the Detroit Tigers. A couple of years back, Sister excepted, Blue was the class of the first sackers.

Last season, Blue, who has just oodles of ability, warmed the bench much of the time and when he did get a chance failed to show his skill of former years.

Blue's mental attitude wasn't conducive to good work. He lacked the fire that once characterized his play. He was dissatisfied.

I look for Blue to be almost twice as efficient this year under Manager George Moriarty. He will have the proper mental attitude, so very necessary to success.

MATTER OF CONDITION

Then there is the matter of physical condition. Oftimes, a player idling away the winter, puts on anywhere from 15 to 25 pounds of excess weight. He is fog-hat, to use a much-used baseball term.

Perhaps it is a cold spring and he is slow rounding into shape. I have known pitchers not to get down to playing weight until late July and naturally their work suffers.

Take the case of Joe Shaute of Cleveland, for instance. In 1925, Joe was very heavy, the extra few inches around the waistline retarded the freedom of his pitching. He worked under a handicap.

One year later, Joe reported in the "proverbial pink" and was at least 30 per cent more efficient, although he got none the best of the breaks.

GETTING THE BREAKS

The breaks, by the way, are a most important factor in determining success or failure on the ball field.

I have known pitchers to have a low earned run average and yet win less than half as many ball games as some other member of the staff who wasn't nearly so effective.

Every year some pitchers are the jinx of the staff. As a matter of fact, certain pitchers appear to annually play that role.

When they pitch, the club doesn't hit. In a pinch, some teammate invariably boots away the contest. Game after game goes into the lost column despite the excellence of the pitching.

Argentina is now producing polo ponies said to be superior to those bred in any other country. One of the Argentine ponies sold recently for as much as $13,000.

Unless dripping skies interfere, Orange County Harbor league baseball teams will enter the eighth week of their pennant struggle tomorrow.

Huntington Beach's two teams, the Republic Supply company and the Union Oil company meet at Huntington Beach.

George Lackaye's Ternan Typewriter company aggregation of Santa Ana goes to Laguna Beach for a set-to with the Laguna Beach Lumber company ensemble.

Orange and Westminster are scheduled to play at Midway City.

BUSHY GRAHAM, CONTENDER FOR CROWN, BEATEN

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—Add another boxing upset to the last days of 1926.

Eager to acquire some of the fame a dozenistic "unknowns" have amassed during this hectic year of sports, one Tony Canzonieri, an Italian youngster, boxed his way to a decision last night over Bushy Graham, Utica bantamweight.

Graham is the same lad who is scheduled to meet Charley (Phil) Rosenberg for the world's bantam-weight title January 7.

For almost a year fight followers have been insisting that the Utica boxer has been the uncrowned champion. He was crowned last night in Madison Square Garden but not with a title.

Canzonieri started out from the gong and won the first round. Then he found that Graham was boxing more with his feet than his hands. So the young Italian, instead of being baffled, uncurled his fist and forced the fighting throughout the match. The decision in his favor was unanimous.

Graham appeared timid. He wailed in mediocrity, apparently content to dance around the ring without essaying an offensive with real power.

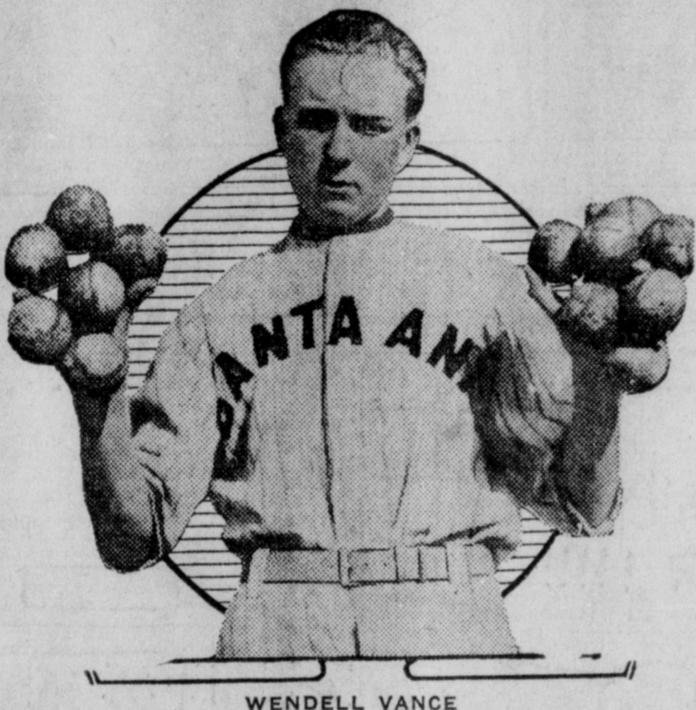

The Utica fighter probably will give his chance at Rosenberg's title next month, however, because the bout last night was not at the bantamweight limit.

WENDELL VANCE

Large hands are a most valuable asset in baseball. Such being the case, Wendell Vance of Santa Ana, a nephew of the great "Dazzy," should be a big success. Here he is living up to his reputation, holding seven balls in one hand and six in the other, 13 in all, proving also that, unlike most ball players, he isn't superstitious. The youngster is the son of Fred S. Vance of this city.

NEVERS LEADS PRO TEAM IN S. F. TIFF

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 18.—Ernie Nevers, pride of the far west football world, will lead his Duluth Eskimos, a professional team, into action here today against a team of former stars of California universities.

It will be Nevers' first appearance in a football uniform on the Pacific coast since he led an attack against California last year which gave his Stanford teammates their first victory over the Golden Bears in five seasons.

Opposing him will be several former coast "greats" including Buck Bailey, Jimmy Needles and "Red" Strader.

TROJANS GET SCARE

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 18.—U. S. C.'s basketball quintet defeated Southwestern University by the narrow margin of one basket in the opening game on the Trojan schedule here last night. The final score was 33-31.

At S. A. Hospital

"Tex" Oliver, Santa Ana high school football coach, was reported as considerably improved today at the Santa Ana Valley hospital where he was operated on yesterday for acute appendicitis.

The stricken mentor "spent a restful night and is in as good condition as possible under the circumstances," it was stated.

Oliver was taken ill yesterday morning and for a time it was feared the appendix would burst before he could be operated on.

This situation, however, did not develop and the operation was entirely successful.

It will be several days before visitors will be permitted to see the line himself, or retreats to huddle a long pack.

Oliver, it was stated.

Twice during the football season just completed Oliver was taken ill with pains in the side and was unable to attend practice. At that time it was thought he was suffering from a light attack of ptomaine poisoning.

SCHOOL BOARD LAUDS OLIVER, LOCAL MENTOR

A departure from the ordinary run of official procedure was registered last night at the meeting of the Santa Ana board of education when at the suggestion of Alex Brownridge, president, the trustees voted a special letter of thanks to Gerald A. ("Tex") Oliver, football coach and head of the men's physical education at the Santa Ana high school, for the splendid leadership and satisfactory results obtained in his department since he joined the faculty.

In voting this testimonial of official approval, the trustees were unanimous in the praise of Oliver, both as a coach and as a desirable leader of young men.

Inquiries revealed that this is the first time that the trustees have gone out of their way to voice their satisfaction of the work performed by an individual teacher.

Oliver came here from San Diego high school where he helped to open two state champion Class B football squads in two years and track squads that were leaders both in the annual Southern California and California state track meets. He formerly was a cadet at West Point.

Oliver "inherited" almost nothing in the way of material in his first season here and the team started slowly but it came along with such a rush in the last three weeks of the season that impartial officials who "worked" games here declared it was the best coached prep team in the state.

Los Angeles junior chamber of commerce officials went so far as to officially offer Santa Ana a Christmas day game in Los Angeles with Tuscaloosa high school, interscholastic champions of Alabama.

Stricken Coach Improving

At S. A. Hospital

Lodi, Calif., Dec. 18.—With the Northern California interscholastic gridiron title as the stakes the high schools of San Mateo and Lodi will meet here this afternoon on a muddy field before one of the largest crowds in Lodi's football history.

Accompanied by 500 rooters and a 40 piece band, "Brick" Mitchell's San Mateo team arrived here this morning confident that the condition of the field will not hamper their chances for victory.

Both teams seem evenly matched and a hard contest is expected.

Lodi is pinning its hopes mainly on the generalship of Gatzert, quarterback, said by Coach Hole to be the greatest quarter he ever coached.

Von Elm, Hunter Defeat Pro Pair

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 18.—A return foursome will be played by George Von Elm and Dr. Paul Hunter, amateurs, against Walter Hagen and Willie Hunter, professionals at the Brentwood Country club course Sunday.

The amateur pair defeated Hagen and Hunter, 5-3, in their 36-hole exhibition match at the Rancho Country club links yesterday.

Hongkong Levies Taxes on Radios

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—If you own a radio receiving set in Hongkong, you will have to pay a yearly tax of $2.50, Consul Harold Shantz reported to the department of commerce.

This additional licensing tax is provided for in a bill recently introduced by the government at Hongkong, which defines each individual receiving set as a wireless telegraph station.

It is planned to turn a portion of the revenue received from the licensees into a fund to be apportioned out to broadcasting organizations.

STATE HEAD OF 40 AND 8 WILL BE GUEST HERE

J. A. Cranston, city superintendent of schools will represent the California Council of Education and the California Teachers' Association at the second annual California State Congress of Religious Education, to be held December 18, 19, 20 and 21 in the First Congregational church, Ninth and Hope streets, Los Angeles.

As a public school executive, Superintendent Cranston has served as chairman of a special committee appointed by the council of education to investigate and report the advisability and practicability of week-day religious education for pupils in the public schools of California. In this capacity, Cranston has made a thorough study of the subject, both from the point of an educator and that of a citizen.

The congress is held under the auspices of a citizens' committee of public-spirited men and women, representing all creeds and occupying prominent positions in their respective communities. Among those listed as sponsors are Harry Chandler, Mrs. W. Bertrand Stevens, Col. Perry E. Weldner, Col. William E. Fowler, Dr. Rufus B. von KleinSmid, Dr. Tully C. Knoles, Dr. James A. Blaisdell, Joseph Scott, Mark Kepel, Judge Robert H. Scott, E. P. Clarke and Mrs. David Ransom Covell.

The program announcement states that the congress proposes no advocacy of particular measures or legislation, but an advocacy of religious education as one answer to our needs. The sponsors are of all denominations. It is called a spontaneous, popular summons responsible to no organization and involving no individual—a congress, an expression of varying opinions upon some phases of religious education. It is a forum, specializing upon no opinion and denying a hearing to none, it is said.

Listed among the speakers are the Rt. Rev. W. Bertrand Stevens, bishop conductor, Episcopal diocese of Los Angeles; Rabbi Edgar F. Magnin, Los Angeles; Prof. Raymond C. Brooks, Pomona college; the Rev. George F. Kennett, superintendent Southern California Congregational conference; the Rev. Frank W. Dell Whittier; Prof. Robert J. Taylor, Pomona college; Dr. Walter F. Dexter, president of Whittier college; Mayor George E. Cryer of Los Angeles; Dr. Miriam Van Waters, Los Angeles; Reynold Blight, Los Angeles; Mrs. F. O. McCollough, state president of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers and Dr. Tully C. Knoles, president of the College of the Pacific, Stockton.

Movie Chatterbox

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—Whatever may be the future of the films, those phases of the cinema's present which offer the merriest entertainment still come under the spell of the early Mack Sennett influence.

Only the Lubitschian type of comedy, with variations from Mai St. Clair, is different.

Thus, in spite of those camera angles, diffusions, expensive backgrounds, innundations and story lengths that go to make the up-to-date picture, the world premiere of the Warner Brothers' production, "The Better 'Ole," with Syd Chaplin, combines all the slapstickers of Sennett vintage. Yet a good time is had by all.

Another Bairnsfather

This brother of the classic Charlie is no mean clown in his own right and in this particular product becomes the Bairnsfather character stepped bodily out of the cartoon.

Perhaps there is no tougher task set an actor than that of competing with an illustrious relative. Charlie had a good long jump on his brother and by the time Syd had decided to go into pictures it seemed certain that he would have to accept amiably the reflected glory and be pointed to as Charlie Chaplin's brother.

So Syd slipped into the role of his brother's manager. Many tales have gone the rounds concerning the part Syd played in Charlie's success and it isn't easy to supply an answer.

An Individual Artist

It isn't a particularly new story that one day a member of Charlie's company took sick, that Syd was called in, and on the strength of what happened he decided that Charlie or no Charlie he was going in on his own.

He may not be a Charlie Chaplin but it remains that he certainly is a Syd Chaplin, and after his work in "The Better 'Ole" there is certainly to be a more general acknowledgement of his artistry.

While the picture itself includes every form of laugh-getter ever tried upon the screen, the antics of Syd himself are flavored with an individuality completely distinctive.

The picture itself includes every form of laugh-getter ever tried upon the screen, the antics of Syd himself are flavored with an individuality completely distinctive.

It is enough of a novelty to still bring plaudits from New Yorkers, though its orchestrations seem to me to be little improvement over the loud speaker. The individual artist makes a far better impression.

Capistrano Wildcat To Be Tested

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Dec. 18.—Edwin M. Robinson, who is drilling the Myers, Robinette and Bostick wildcat well at San Juan Capistrano, has set a string of casing in the well at about 1650 feet, cementing it at about 1200 feet, according to official reports. Bottom of the well is at 2414 feet, and according to Robinson, it has had some good showings. The well will be drilled out on Tuesday, it is said.

CHURCH ARRANGES SPECIAL SERVICES

ORANGE, Dec. 18.—Special music and Christmas themes will predominate at the next three church services of the First Presbyterian church. A Christmas entertainment by the Sunday school department will be given Wednesday evening, according to an announcement of the Rev. Earle P. Cochran, pastor.

Today morning choir selections will be rendered. The pastor will deliver a sermon on the topic of "God's Christmas Gift."

The Sunday evening hour will feature a song service of Christmas carols and solos by Dr. B. E. Garrison and the pastor. The pastor's message at that time will be "The Other Wise Man."

The mid-week meeting on Wednesday evening will be in the nature of a lesson on the different interpretations of Christmas, with the pastor talking on the subject of "Your Interpretation of Christmas."

Announcement of a Bible Class will meet each Tuesday for seven weeks starting Jan. 4 at 2:30 o'clock in which the Book of Romans will be studied, has been made by the pastor. All who care to attend are welcome, the Rev. Mr. Cochran states.

Lois Jester Is Party Honoree

ORANGE, Dec. 18.—In observance of the 18th birthday of Miss Lois Jester, a group of friends were present as her guests at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Jester, 469 North Orange street, at birthday party recently. Cards and music entertained the group. Prizes were awarded as follows: First prize for girls, a wavy artificial flower, Miss Melva Fletcher consolation prize, a handkerchief, Miss Edith Damewood; first prize for boys, a key container, William Brand; consolation prize, a comb, William Parsons.

The guests were the Misses Helen Raymond, Leota Asa, Melva Fletcher, Mildred Ferking, Dorothy Kern, Ruth Snow and Edith Damewood, and Messrs. Bob Carriger, Harry Kadua, Val Jean McCoy, Ed Adams, Bob Crawford, Elwood Coates, William Brand and William Parsons.

WESTMINSTER

WESTMINSTER, Dec. 18.—School was here this afternoon for the Christmas holidays. The afternoon session was given over to the celebration of Christmas in the assembly. Santa Claus distributed bags of candy and nuts to all of the children. Each room at the school had a Christmas tree. Friday afternoon in assembly, the children joined in singing "Silent Night" and other Christmas carols and candlelight songs. Mrs. Mary Thompson told a Christmas story. Gifts were exchanged by the pupils. The teachers received numerous gifts from the children.

Miss Wilma Cozad, of Long Beach, was in Westminster Thursday. The Fountain Valley girls' basketball team played Westminster, the result being 24 to 23 in favor of Westminster. This was the deciding game between the two teams, Westminster having won the first game by two points.

The Fountain Valley girls are now talking basketball and plan to form a team after the holiday vacation.

Mrs. C. Burley, of this place, who is leaving this week for Nevada, and who possibly may locate in that state soon, has been seeing to the remodeling of her house at Huntington Beach, where a new roof is being put on. This property of Mrs. Burley's is under lease for oil, with two wells producing on the lease and the next well due to go down on Mrs. Burley's land. Mrs. Burley goes to Las Vegas, Nevada, with her son, T. A. Wells and family, each having property interests at that place.

Mrs. Joe Leerivain, who has been ill for some months, is reported as unimproved.

The small son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Rivers became ill with the mumps Thursday. This is the first case of this disease thus far reported about Talbert.

Word has been received here of the marriage in Los Angeles of Walter Crist, of that city, eldest son of Mrs. J. H. Cox, of Talbert. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mallory Flannigan, pastor last year of the Talbert M. E. church, south, and this year assistant pastor of Trinity church, Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Edward, who recently moved here from Smeltzer, moved Friday morning from the William Settle house, to one of the Phelps' houses on Locust street. Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Melvin, of Oregon, are visiting at the Edward home during the Christmas holidays. Mr. Melvin is a brother of Mrs. Edward.

Mrs. Ora L. Schieber, Miss Jessie McCoy and Mrs. Mary Thompson attended the teachers institute, in Santa Ana Thursday evening. The speaker of the evening was Dr. Speath of Princeton, N. J., who gave an address on the "Art of Living."

Mrs. Frances Penhall and Mrs. Joe Walton were shopping Friday, in Long Beach.

Mrs. Floyd Morris and daughter, Miss Marion, were in Los Angeles Friday afternoon where they were joined by another daughter, Miss Nellie, returned with them to spend the week-end in Westminster.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Knapp and Mrs. Herbert Anderson attended at a dance in Long Beach, Wednesday night.

W. RACKER TO HUNT

NEWPORT BEACH, Dec. 18.—Walter Racker, local fishing tackle dealer, left yesterday with friends on a hunting trip to Imperial valley. He plans to be gone several days.

FORM NEW CLUB TO TAKE OVER NEGRO PROJECT

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Dec. 18.—A proposition whereby the negro colony project, east of Huntington Beach, may be taken over by white people was set forth at the chamber of commerce meeting by A. L. Compton, of Los Angeles. The South Coast club, as the new club will be known, has been organized, declared Mr. Compton, and memberships will soon be available. The club plans to build a three-story clubhouse, following Norman architectural lines. The clubhouse will be 400 feet long and will contain from 60 to 80 rooms. The clubhouses also will contain all of the features found in the modern clubs of today, he declared.

The exchange office is justly proud of the record, particularly in view of the fact that the average cost of all exchanges affiliated with the California Fruit Growers' exchange was $0.0138 cents per box

$72,000 CHRISTMAS GIFT TENDERED CITRUS GROWERS BY COUNTY FRUIT EXCHANGE

ORANGE, Dec. 18.—Another Christmas surprise, serving to heighten the Yule spirit in the district's citrus ranks, developed today in the announcement by L. Palmer, manager of the Orange County Fruit exchange, that checks, aggregating $72,000, were placed in the mails to member associations covering exchange refunds for the past season.

The refunds, while mailed to the various citrus associations affiliated with the exchange, will ultimately find their way to the growers in the form of refunds from the individual packing plants.

The exchange refund, Palmer stated, represents an average of $0.035 cents per box on all fruit shipped through the exchange during the past season.

The operating cost is said to be lower than that of any other exchange in the state. The refund represents the surplus after all operating costs have been paid, including the item of depreciation.

A large volume of shipments together with a correspondingly low overhead cost combined to make the record, it was declared.

The exchange office is justly proud of the record, particularly in view of the fact that the average cost of all exchanges affiliated with the California Fruit Growers' exchange was $0.0138 cents per box while the Orange county exchange operated at a cost of less than one cent per box or exactly $0.0098 of one cent per box.

The production of this well from the Seal Beach field, it was authoritatively reported yesterday, after the well had cleared up and satisfactory gauge of the output had been taken. This makes the Bryant the best well in the Seal Beach field, exceeding the Selover No. 1 of the Marland Oil company by about 300 barrels a day. Gravity of the oil ranges between 23.9 degrees and 25.2 degrees, and the cut is said to have practically disappeared.

The well is showing unusually good pressure, the flowline registering 600 pounds, and the casing 1000 pounds.

The production of this well from a penetration of less than 30 feet of oil sand, and the fact that the sand was found about 50 feet higher than in any other well in the field has given rise to interesting conjecture as to the geological conditions that are indicated.

The well is within 1200 feet of four dry holes which were drilled by the Standard, the Shell company, and the Marland Oil company. It is generally believed among operators that the performance of the new well makes it probable that portions of the Associated's Hellman property, and the Shell company's Alamitos property may be productive.

One theory is that the Associated drilled its Bryant No. 1 on top of one dome of a structure which may have two or three such domes, the Associated being on the southeastern dome, and perhaps the Petroleum Securities' Naples well on the northwestern dome, with the possibility of another dome between.

Henrietta Blank acted as reader of the Bryant lease is the fact that, following the completion of the discovery well by the Marland Oil company, the property was unleased for three weeks, at least two of the large oil companies rejecting it. The Associated is reported to have paid $100,000 for the lease of 40 acres.

The Marland Oil company yesterday spudded in its No. 2 well on the Selover lease, according to field reports. Selover No. 1, which blew out about five weeks ago, and was turned into the tanks at 3500 barrels a day, continues to produce at the rate of about 2700 barrels a day, it is said.

His condition was regarded as serious by hospital attaches for some time. He is reported out of danger today. The pastor was found unconscious on the floor of his bathroom by firemen. The damage was estimated at $2000, fully covered by insurance.

Plaza habitues come to their daily rendezvous each morning with investigating eyes for any mishap which may have fallen to the unwary driver during the night.

TALBERT

TALBERT, Dec. 18.—Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Friend and their family have moved from Talbert, where they have resided for some time, to Stockton. Mr. Friend has taken one truckload of their goods to the new home and will return soon for his wife and children, who are staying at the Joe Friend home at Wintersburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ward visited Mrs. Ward's uncle, Joseph Dismukes, of Santa Ana, at the Anaheim hospital recently.

Old settlers of this community are anticipating an unusually delightful evening on New Year's eve, at which time the usual monthly meeting of the Old Setters' club will be held at Huntington Beach. Many Talbert people are members of the organization, of which Mrs. Mary V. Bushard, a former local woman, is president.

Three new cases of measles are reported to have developed in the Fountain Valley school, Verna and Margaret Helm and Corinne Leerivain having been absent from school Thursday with the disease. Irving Titus is reported as getting along nicely. Nearly every child in the school has had the measles.

The pumps are located at the mouth of the river for the purpose of relieving the lowlands of the excess water have accomplished this purpose, the work having been completed this week. This method was used by the Talbert drainage district and assisting the pumps was the Talbert dredger, operated by Frank Eastman and George Page, who have started the dredger in the lower canals following a short lay-off on the work. The Talbert ditch cleaner also is working, at present being on No. 4 ditch, near the Newland ranch.

The problem of lighting the circular park so that drivers would have no more trouble at night than in the day in negotiating the drive has been the cause of many lengthy sessions by the board of trustees.

Plaza habitues come to their daily rendezvous each morning with investigating eyes for any mishap which may have fallen to the unwary driver during the night.

EL TORO

EL TORO, Dec. 18.—Members of the Woman's club were guests of Mrs. F. M. Gordon Thursday at the home of Mrs. Bennie Osterman. Mrs. Levi Gockley presided over a short business session. The rest of the afternoon was spent with fancy work. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Gordon and Mrs. Osterman. Those present were Mrs. Levi Gockley, Mrs. R. B. Waterman, Mrs. Walter Tait, Mrs. Louis Robinson, Mrs. Dale Trapp, Mrs. John Osterman, Mrs. Alf Trapp, Mrs. Raymond Prothro, Mrs. W. V. Whisler, Mrs. Jesse Jiles, Mrs. George Osterman, Mrs. Lydia Hemingway, Mrs. Willia Mitchell, of Los Angeles, Mrs. Harvey Bennett, Mrs. Slater, Mrs. C. C. Hendricks and Mrs. D. W. Gould. The club will meet next Thursday at the hall to decorate the Christmas tree and fill candy boxes for the entertainment at basketball.

The school children enjoyed a Christmas party given by the teachers, Thursday afternoon. The small pupils were guests of Mrs. Lankford. The older scholars presented a tree and program. The children exchanged gifts and were given candy and nuts by the teachers.

Lonnie and Arthur Easher, of Beaver City, Nebraska, brothers of Mrs. C. W. Swartz, with their wives have arrived to spend the winter in Santa Ana. They have taken an apartment at 1327-1/2 Bush street.

Those present at Wednesday's meeting were Kenneth Moore, Charles Carpenter, Dennis Russell, Roy Wenzel, Ira DeBush, Manuel Felix, Huelo Delores, Bill Russell, Verne Breeding, R. T. Carpenter, the leader, and Mr. McKee, the guest of the evening. The next meeting is scheduled for Friday of next week.

Mrs. E. Ray Moore entertained at a dinner party at her home in honor of Mr. Moore's cousin, Miss Irma DeBarr, of Santa Ana, who leaves next week for an extended visit to her former Illinois home. Present were the honor guest and her brother, Linn DeBarr, of Los Angeles; their cousin, Miss Olive Leeper, of Los Angeles, and members of the Moore family, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Moore, Miss Muriel Moore, Kenneth, Dwayne and Harlan, Doris and Florence Ray Moore.

Ova Harrison and Horace Neth, who have been making their home with Mr. and Mrs. Ray Fox for the past several months, left Thursday noon to motor through to their eastern homes. Harrison goes to Kansas and Neth to Arkansas.

Mr. C. Hazard received a special mention for his entry in the rabbit show which closed Sunday night at Anaheim. The prize winner was a snow white doe, the only entry from the Hazard rabbit farm, where about 400 rabbits are now being raised.

Mrs. Eva Hicks, Mrs. Otis Kavanaugh, Mrs. Iva Hazard, Mrs. Sizer and Mrs. Jean Jenkins, of this place, attended the meeting of the Mooseheart Lodge at Huntington Beach Wednesday evening.

SPIRIT OF KINDNESS

Children are not the only ones who enjoy Christmas.

Let's put it this way: you have to have a little bit of the child in your heart to enter into the spirit of the holiday.

Is that spirit being ground out of us by the rush of modern life? It is not. The more complex and hurried life becomes, the more does each man retain jealously and ardently, that little, shy spark of child-like faith and hope and freshness in his heart. If that is not the case, why is it that little Willie's father always manages to play with Willie's new train of cars about three times as much as Willie does the first few days after Christmas?

There's something else about Christmas, too, that has not been and never will be commercialized. That is the spirit of kindness and unselfishness that the day brings. It is something we need desperately. Once a year is not too often for us to forget about ourselves and think of others. It is not too often for us to remember that there are such things as neighborliness and brotherhood and love and Christian self-forgetfulness.

We ought to have the spirit of Christmas all year long.

OUR FARM BUREAU

While the Orange County Farm bureau is considering the question of an increase in its dues, we take the opportunity to offer our word of appreciation of the very excellent service that has been rendered the people of Orange county by its farm bureau. The organization began in a small way, and has grown into an institution of widespread importance and usefulness.

There is no way in which the good that the farm bureau has done can be estimated or stated. Nobody can say where its influence has reached. Whenever, through it, a single grower uses better methods, good has been accomplished. If a grower is brought to a consideration of betterment of his farming ways, the farm bureau's existence, so far as that man is concerned, is justified. Considering that this influence reaches to many farms and to many orchards, the existence of the bureau for the county as a whole is more than justified.

This county has diversified interests. That places upon the farm bureau the necessity of maintaining many departments, with expert assistance in each department. The cost of maintaining the bureau may thus be made greater than would be the case were the county a producer of only one or two main crops.

We are not endeavoring to argue for or against the increase in dues. That is a matter for the farm bureau members themselves to decide. We do say emphatically, however, that, in our opinion, the farm bureau of this county has done a great service for the county.

"RESEARCH" LAW TESTS

The comprehensive examination has reached candidates for admission to the bar in Ohio. It is called a "research test" and is such a surprising innovation that many of the law graduates confronted with it for the first time are nervous.

This test gets away from the old method of asking a lot of questions to which certain answers must be fitted. It marks an attempt to minimize "book learning" about law and to emphasize understanding and ability.

All the candidates at a recent bar examination at Columbus, were told to go to the library and select some book on law, or some specific legal question. After looking it over a given length of time they were then to "brief it," just as they would prepare a brief for a case in court. The theory of such a test is that it shows better than the answering of a few questions the candidate's grasp of law and his ability to marshal certain facts in their proper legal relationship.

This sort of test has been making great headway in American schools and colleges in recent years. There is a swing away from rote-learning toward the cultivation of intelligence, judgment, ability to think. It is an evidence of genuine progress in education.

IT'S THE AMERICAN WAY

"What's it all about?" asks a lady who read the editorial in Wednesday's Register under the heading: "The Verdict is, 'Not Guilty'."

Evidently the lady did not read the news article published the day before (which called forth the editorial) in which it was brought out that Mrs. Fay Spangler, president of the Santa Ana City Federation of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers, had incurred the displeasure of that august (or should it be September?) organization known to fame as the National Association of Direct Selling Companies, Inc., of Winona, Minn. If there were any more of the official title of this organization, it would be cheerfully printed here, for space isn't to be considered when the matter is one of correctly naming an organization which, in its own estimation, evidently ranks in importance with the League of Nations, and has the destinies of the world under its control.

The head and front of the Santa Ana lady's offending appears to be that she has had the temerity to endorse a "Buy at Home" movement, launched by the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, to the end that quality and price are equal, home products give the preference by buyers. Thereupon the Winona organization addressed a letter of strong reproof to Mrs. Spangler, taking occasion to remark that her endorsement of the movement in question is entirely wrong; that her statement in favor of such procedure on the part of the purchasing public is full of sophistry and false conclusions, and "to the thinking person is more or less of a joke."

The Constitution of the United States, and various lesser authorities, are cited to prove that Mrs. Spangler is wrong in the belief that buying home products is a sound policy, economically and otherwise, and the National Association of Direct Selling Companies, Inc., seems real peeved.

Nevertheless the Santa Ana lady may take some little comfort in the thought that the very policy she has endorsed is the policy which, carried into effect, has made these United States of America the richest and most prosperous country under the sun. The policy of protection to home enterprises, to home labor, and to home productions has been the policy of this country for a great many years, and it is a fact beyond dispute that when that policy has been departed from—as upon infrequent occasions it has,—the resultant depression of trade has been so general as to be felt by every part and portion of the country.

Trade at home, buy what you need of your home dealer and home factories. Keep the home fires burning by keeping home labor constantly employed. That is the policy of this government and of this people.

A saying attributed to Lincoln—and if he did not say it, it so well conveys a great economic truth that he may well have said it—embodies what has come to be accepted as the American idea. Speaking of the purchase of steel nails, the great president is quoted as saying:

"I have noticed that when we buy steel nails of England, we get the steel nails, and England gets the money. But when we buy steel nails from our home manufacturers, we not only get the steel nails, but keep the money at home."

Highway Finance Plans

Riverside Press

The latest report regarding plans to finance highway construction for the next two years is that the legislature is expected to increase the gasoline tax from two cents to three cents and to provide that the receipts from the extra cent tax shall all go to the state and be devoted entirely to new work. The law would further provide that first attention be given to the completion of the primary roads and that a just division of the funds be made as between the northern and southern sections of the state.

It may be regarded as rather a revolutionary proposal for the legislature to increase the gasoline tax when the people voted down the proposition at the November election by a majority of practically 40,000. It is claimed, however, that a good deal of the opposition to this amendment was not based on the increased tax but on the fact that the law fixed no limitations regarding the expenditure of the money. It carried no provision regarding the completion of the primary roads first and did not guarantee any just division of the money on geographical lines. There is a measure of truth in this claim; but in view of the large majority against an increase in the gas tax, it is quite possible that a referendum might be invoked against a law for a three-cent tax.

A group of highway enthusiasts in the north is trying to work out a highway finance plan that would involve an increase in the weight tax on autos and an annual appropriation for the general crop.

Then a good deal of support has developed for the plan suggested by T. F. Flaherty and elaborated by the Press. This involves an annual appropriation from the general fund of the state of $2,000,000 or $3,000,000 and an amendment to the present gas tax law providing that a certain percentage of the amount going to the state should be used for new construction. At present all of the tax money to be used for maintenance and repairs. This plan is a somewhat experimental one and might well be tried for two years.

There is this argument in favor of some appropriation from the general funds of the state for highway work. That would mean a contribution from the corporations which now escape entirely as they do not contribute to the gasoline tax. That tax is a class proposition and falls entirely on the owners of autos and trucks. It is an easy tax to collect; but it disregards the basal principle of taxation, that taxes should be leveled equitably on all classes of people and all sorts of property. It does not seem quite fair to place on the owners of automobiles the entire burden of construction and maintenance of our highways.

Special interests will be busy at the legislature with schemes favorable to them; and the people generally may well watch the progress of this legislation to the end that a just and practical measure may be worked out.

Says Evidence Being Faked

Redlands Facts

The elder Ormiston, father of Kenneth, says the prosecution in the McPherson case is faking evidence all the time. In support of such a statement he says he was present when his son's automobile was searched and nothing whatever of an incriminating character was to be discovered. But a little later, the search was renewed in his absence and a woman's hairpin and a pendant from a necklace were reported to have been discovered. To tell the truth, a great deal of this evidence as to strings of hair and lingerie and hairpins has a very fake appearance. The San Bernardino Sun contributes the suggestion that the McPherson case is being tried by the newspapers of Los Angeles, which dig up the alleged evidence and keep the thing going merely as a publicity stunt, forcing the hand of the district attorney's office all the time, that officer not having the strength of character to stand up against the papers. Well, let us hope the whole mess will be straightened out on a basis of justice.

The legislator who contemplates imposing his $5 tax for failure to vote is merely ringing in a change on the old ward-heeler practice of purchasing votes. What essential difference is there between a voter who stamps a ballot in order to save himself $5, and the voter who stamps a ballot at the request of a boss in order to earn $5? There is a difference in purpose and effect, of course, but there is very little difference in the kind of voters the two schemes would propagate.

Every review of the legislative proposals to remedy this failure serves to convince us that there is no simple remedy. That lie at the root of this civic inertia are manifold and complex. The only general remedy is that of education for citizenship—a sort of education which is at least as many-sided and complicated as the evils which it would remedy. The promotion of that sort of education is a slow process.

Stiff Sentences As Check

San Francisco Chronicle

There have been 115 automobile deaths in San Francisco so far this year. This is one every three days. It is too many. Within recent weeks there has been an alarming increase in the number of hit-and-run cases. That is a particularly aggravated offense against the safety of the public and against the peace of mind and the public esteem of the law-abiding driver. No class is so concerned for the suppression of lawlessness behind the wheel as is the careful motorist. But the public at large, those who own and drive motor cars and those who go afoot, are entitled to the protection of the law. No namby-pamby methods will do, as the figures show. The courts need not wait until manslaughter is committed. Reckless drivers should be soaked with stiff sentences. And in those cases in which human life has been recklessly sacrificed the limit in prison sentences will serve to put the fear of the law into others who think that a pink automobile ticket is a license to commit homicide.

Worth While Verse

THE STORMY PETREL

A thousand miles from land are we,
Tossing about on the roiling sea,
From billow to bounding billow cast,
Like fleecy snow on the stormy blast.
The sails are scattered abroad like weeds;
The strong masts shake like quivering reeds;
The mighty cables and iron chains,
The hull, which all earthly strength disdains—
They strain and they crack; and hearts like stone
Their natural, hard, proud strength disown.

Up and down!—up and down!
From the base of the wave to the billow's crown,
And amidst the flashing and feathery foam
The stormy petrel finds a home—
A home, if such a place may be
For her who lives on the wide, wide sea,
On the craggy ice, in the frozen air.
And only seeketh her rocky lair
To warn her young, and to teach them to spring
At once o'er the waves on their stormy wing!
O'er the deep!—o'er the deep!
Where the whale and the shark and the swordfish sleep—
Outflaying the blast and the driving rain,
The petrel telleth her tale in vain;
For the mariner curseth the warning bird
Which bringeth him news of the storm unheard!
Ah! thus does the prophet of good or ill
Meet hate from the creatures he serveth still;
Yet he ne'er falters—so petrel, spring
Once more o'er the waves on thy stormy wing!

Which May or May Not Be in Accord With the Views of The Register

By Horace McPhee

T WAS EVER THUS—Speaking of fault-finders who deplore the passing of "the good old times," it would appear that such have existed for a long, long time.

A recent writer on this subject quotes Hollinshead's Chronicles, published in 1577, which contained a complaint that too many chimneys were being built, that mattresses were being used instead of straw pallets, hence people were growing softer and more feeble. Also, he said, in the Middle Ages shirts were denounced as luxuries, and men were pilloried for wearing them.

Voltaire, in his day, declared that England had reached the pinnacle of prosperity and no further advancement was possible. Xenophon spoke of the effeminate Persians who actually used gloves to protect their hands. The first man to carry an umbrella (Jonas Hanway) in England was hooted on the streets for his cowardice.

KIND WORDS FOR THE FLAPPER—At a recent meeting of the playground supervisors of Southern California, held at Santa Monica, George W. Braden, western representative of the Playground Association of America, said:

"The flapper at her best is more active, healthy-minded, fair-seeming, frank and whole-hearted than the best types of the same age of 25 years ago."

Nor is that all that has recently been said in praise and appreciation of the flapper. "Flapper" scarecrows perform their duties more successfully than do those of the 'stronger sex,' declared Dr. William C. Herman, noted ornithologist, after making a practical test of various kinds of devices to frighten birds from his grape crop. "At first I tried a scarecrow dressed in man's clothing," said the naturalist, "but the birds became quite friendly with 'him.' They even perched on his shoulders. Then I decided to try the deadlier sex—and I garbed my scarecrow in flapper's apparel. For some reason it was extremely successful."

WHERE SENATOR SHORT RIDGE STANDS—Some of our good people who failed to vote for the re-election of United States Senator Shortridge, for the reason, as they alleged, and no doubt believed, that he would not heartily support the Boulder dam project, may be interested in a very recent declaration by Senator Shortridge, which is as follows:

"I shall do my utmost to obtain passage at this session. I am for every feature of it a hundred per cent. We want no temporizing, no emergency appropriation that would defeat the bill, no task of compromise on a low flood control dam. Only a high dam at Boulder canyon and the all-American canal will meet the needs of Southern California."

PARDON MILL TO CLOSE—One thing that Mrs. Ferguson has amply demonstrated during her short term as governor (or should it be governess?) of Texas, is that she does not believe in capital punishment. Indeed, it is possible that the good lady does not believe in punishment of any kind.

In the first twenty-one months of her two-year term she pardoned or mitigated the sentences of 2645 criminals, and was still going strong.

Perhaps if they hurry up the conviction of the young woman of Texas who was, the other day, practically caught in the act of robbing a bank, Mrs. Ferguson may be able to pardon her before the Texas pardon mill closes, which will be right soon.

PAROLE 'EM, OF COURSE—Those who profess to see nothing but evil in capital punishment will, no doubt, join with much enthusiasm in the effort now being made to procure paroles for the Powers brothers, who are now serving terms in an Arizona penitentiary.

Brother Ormiston seems to have been granted the freedom of the city, of the state and of the United States, with yet more words to conquer.

HONORS FOR ORMISTON—Once upon a time it used to be the rule to present the "freedom of the city" to notable personages.

It is on foot looking to the holding of a mammoth exposition to be held in Los Angeles in 1931. Well, why not? The Almeida McPherson case ought to be disposed of by that time, and Mr. Ormiston—well, Mr. Ormiston, for all this writer knows, may be running for president in 1931.

DELAYED IN TRANSIT—It would appear that the original "letter that was longed for and never came" turned up the other day, when a communication containing a check for $25.20 in payment for automobile tubes was found in the mail chute of the Mills building, being torn down in New York, where it had been stuck for 18 years.

IT IS POSSIBLE—A movement is on foot looking to the holding of a mammoth exposition to be held in Los Angeles in 1931. Well, why not? The Almeida McPherson case ought to be disposed of by that time, and Mr. Ormiston—well, Mr. Ormiston, for all this writer knows, may be running for president in 1931.

CHILDREN are very susceptible to atmosphere. They are far more sensitive than the average grown-up to the moods of people and the influence of surroundings. They respond happily to color and sunshine, to cleanliness and healthful activity. They shrink from gloom and drab things. The moods and voice inflections of those who care for little babies have a most decided effect upon the child, for long before he interprets a spoken language the child reads moods in the voice and the attitudes of a grown-up. Speak pleasantly, for instance, to a baby and he'll smile long before he has any idea what you're saying; but scold him and there will be no such response. One may hide his mood from another grown-up, but it is very difficult to deceive a child.

ON the way to school I pass a house
Sort o' hid way back in a woody yard.
On the rickety porch there's a shutter loose,
That flaps with a bang when the wind blows hard.
One side of the steps is tumbling down,
And the windows stare with an empty f
